HAUCK BREWING COMPANY WILL MANUFACTURE CEREAL BEVERAGES

Brewing Property, Sold a Few Years Ago to Food Products Company, Has Been Repurchased and Will be Fitted Up for Brewing of Kickless Drinks Sanctioned by The Volstead Law.

The George Hauck & Sons Brewing Company has purchased the property of the Hauck Food Products Company at the corner of Wurts and McEntee streets, which it sold several years ago to the Food Products Company at the time brewing was abandoned. The oil refining machinery will be removed and the brewing of cereal beverages resumed, the product, of course, being kept within the limits prescribed by the Volstead Law.

Adam Hauck is president of the George Hauck & Sons Brewing Company and John B. Kearney is the secretary and treasurer. The business was established over 60 years ago by George Hauck and George Dressel. Mr. Dressel withdrew later and still later the business was taken over by the George Hauck & Sons Brewing Company, which has been in business continuously ever since and now resumes brewing. When the brewery was sold to the Food Products Company the Brewing Company ceased manufacturing, but continued in business as a selling corporation, handling various beverages made by other concerns. The abandonment of the manufacture of edible oils by the Food Products Company left the building on the market and trade conditions are now such that the Brewing Company has deemed it advisable to purchase the plant and resume the manufacturing of cereal beverages. In addition to the brewery the company owns a fine bottling plant on McEntee street which will again be utilized in connection with the brewery.

REJECTED LOVER SLASHES FORMER FOLLIES GIRL

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Boston, Dec. 18.—Police were searching today for Sarro Vaccaro, of East Boston, who slashed Mrs. Helen Keefe Valdimir, former Countess Von Motz, ex-Winter Garden and ex-Follies girl, across the face with a razor and fled in an automobile. It is feared that the young woman, who is a talented singer, will be disfigured for life and may be forced to retire from the stage.

It is said Mrs. Valdimir rejected Vaccaro, when she learned that he was engaged in drug traffic. The young woman, who resides at No. 146 West Fiftieth street, New York, was visiting her father, James Keefe, at No. 404 Parkway, Revere.

Vaccaro paid a visit to the Keefe home late last night after he had been asked not to call. When the door bell rang, Mrs. Valdimir, thinking it was her father, pushed the button which releases the door latch. Vaccaro entered the house and Mrs. Valdimir told him to leave the house. Instead, he leaped at her and seized her by the throat. He then drew a razor and slashed the young woman across the face. The cut was deep, extending from under the right eye to the mouth. Vaccaro then left the house and sped away in an automobile.

A BLAZING WAGON IN OLD TUNNEL CALLED OUT FIREMEN

Early Morning Fire in Rear of Cement Company Barn.

About 6:45 o'clock this morning smoke was seen issuing from an old tunnel in the rear of the Newark Lime and Cement Company barn on the high road, and an alarm was turned in from Box 19, to which the fire department responded. They found that an old wagon in the tunnel was on fire, and extinguished the flames. Who fired the wagon is not known.

Messages To Mexico Delayed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Dec. 18.—Indications that internal conditions in Mexico are growing more serious was confirmed in an announcement by the Western Union today that all messages for Mexico City are subject to at least forty hours delay. It was pointed out that a Mexican federal censorship has been established at the border over all messages sent by way of Laredo. Messages sent by way of the Galveston cable route are subject to revolutionary censorship at Vera Cruz.

SALVATION ARMY FUND $3,027.88

Campaign Will Be Suspended Until March or April at Which Time Balance of $4,000 Would Be Raised—Amount Raised by Wards.

At the Salvation Army Home Service Fund Campaign meeting held at the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening, additional reports were received from the teams, which brings the Salvation Army campaign total to date up to $3,027.88.

At last night's meeting, the executive committee decided to adjourn the campaign until the time was more opportune for raising the balance of $4,000. They felt that due to the holidays being so near, and there having been so many appeals recently, that it would be unwise to attempt to get any further at the present time. The executive committee thanked Mr. Gregory, the campaign director and stated that they thought he had accomplished wonders under the present conditions. They also voted to send a letter to this effect to the divisional heads of the Hudson River Division, under whom Mr. Gregory is working. The idea of the executive committee is to adjourn until March or April and then quietly go out and raise the balance necessary. The total amount raised has been credited to the wards as follows:

First Ward.
E. Frank Flanagan, Capt...	$483 00
Second Ward.
Mrs. J. J. Linson, Capt....	712 90
Third Ward.
Miss Anne Heaney, Capt...	192 03
Fourth Ward.
Lorraine B. Wood, Capt...	259 25
Fifth Ward.
The Rev. F. W. Moot, Capt.	150 72
Sixth Ward.
Mrs. Sam Mann, Capt.....	160 92
Seventh Ward.
The Rev. John Anthony, Capt.	182 50
Eighth Ward.
Charles R. O'Connor, Capt.	209 75
Ninth Ward.
Mrs. G. Kogle, Capt.	191 06
Tenth Ward	46 65
Eleventh Ward.
Percy C. Schoonmaker, Capt.	295 10
Twelfth Ward.

CLEMENCEAU RECOVERING FROM LATEST INJURIES.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Dec. 18.—The rugged constitution of former Premier Georges Clemenceau, who was injured in an automobile accident Sunday, pulled him through today, despite his 82 years and the fact that a would-be assassin's bullet lies lodged in his chest.

"The Tiger" announced that he felt well enough to work and insisted upon sitting at his desk in spite of his doctor's orders to take a week's rest.

"Oh, I am all right," declared the ex-premier to inquiring friends.

"SNOOZER GIRL" IS WORLD'S CHAMPION CAT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Dec. 18.—As a judge of cats, Joe Frascone, 13 years old, is world's champion. Today his entry, "Snoozer Girl," wore the blue ribbon awarded as first prize at the annual Waldorf-Astoria cat show. Last year "Snoozer Girl's" brother, "Snoozer Boy," won first prize.

"I just found my old mother cat in an alley down on the East Side," Joe explained to the judges. "I feed my cats on liver and milk and I guess that's why they win."

Awards for War Losses.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Dec. 18.—Awards aggregating approximately $2,000,000 were made today by the German-American mixed claims committee to American firms, which sustained losses in Germany as a result of the World War. The largest award—$900,000 with interest at five per cent from November 1, 1918—was made to the Standard Oil Company.

RAGLAN CHANGES PLEA TO GUILTY

Gun Toter's Former Conviction Being Investigated—Railroad Defending Action Growing Out of Crossing Accident.

In supreme court Monday afternoon Louis Raglan, indicted by the recent grand jury on a charge of carrying a revolver, changed his plea of not guilty which he entered when arraigned last Friday to guilty of the charge. Andrew J. Cook appeared for Raglan. After defendant's statement had been taken and it was learned that he had been previously convicted Judge Staley held the case open for a couple of days while an investigation is made into the former conviction. When District Attorney Traver has made such an investigation Raglan will be sentenced by the court.

There were no other arraignments in court Monday and the O'Brien, Tonskey vs. Director General of Railroads and the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company action was continued. This action growing out of the collision between the West Shore paper train and a trolley car on March 4, 1918, has occupied the attention of the court for several days. Plaintiff's case and testimony on the part of the trolley company was closed last week and defendant railroad is now proving its case. The actions are for personal injuries sustained by passengers on the trolley car. William H. Grogan and Andrew J. Cook appear for plaintiffs and William D. Brinnier, Jr., for the trolley company. Amos Van Etten appears for the Director General of Railroads.

GREATEST WARSHIP COMING TO BROOKLYN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 18.—The electrically driven battleship West Virginia, greatest warship ever constructed and pride of the American navy, sailed out through the Virginia capes today on her way to the Brooklyn Navy Yard. She was given a rousing farewell.

Before taking her place with the Pacific fleet, the West Virginia will have a fire control system installed at Brooklyn.

A great Christmas celebration is planned for the West Virginia and twenty of her men had been detailed for the past few days to secure Yuletide decorations in the naval reserve wood near Yorktown.

More than ten thousand visitors were shown over the great dreadnaught in the two weeks that she was stationed at the Norfolk Navy Yard.

DUNDEE BEATS BERNSTEIN; NOW HOLDS TWO TITLES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Dec. 18.—Johnny Dundee today succeeded in his ambition of being a double title holder. The Scotch Wop, already feather-weight champion, regained his title of junior light-weight champion from Jack Bernstein at the end of fifteen rounds of fighting at Madison Square Garden last night.

Dundee in regaining the title he lost to Bernstein last night, shared his honors with sweet charity, the show being pulled off for the benefit of the New York American's Christmas Fund. The attendance reached 13,589 and the gate $74,970.

Bernstein had the better of the early milling, but Dundee made a strong finish and earned the judge's decision. The former had the better of four rounds, while Dundee won seven rounds, with four rounds even.

TANGIER PACT FOR EQUAL TRADING RIGHTS READY.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Dec. 18.—The Tangier treaty, providing neutrality and equal commercial rights at the Moroccan port of Tangier, was ready for signing today.

Announcement was made by the foreign office that the pact would be signed by England and France at 3 o'clock. The Spanish delegate, lacking proper instructions, is expected to sign later.

Italy wished to participate but was prevented by French influence. Spain supported Italy's request to take part in the negotiations.

It was officially stated that the treaty is agreeable to the United States.

DR. NICOLL URGES VACCINATION FOR ALL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Dec. 18.—Dr. Matthias Nicoll, Jr., state commissioner of health, is using every means at his command to impress upon people, throughout New York state the necessity for being vaccinated against smallpox.

There have been between 25 and 30 cases of smallpox in eastern New York during the last month, and these, according to Dr. Nicoll, originated from a man who came to Albany from Detroit.

Every person who has not been vaccinated within five years should have it done at once, Dr. Nicoll warns.

Foodstuffs Burned.

New York, Dec. 18.—Foodstuff in storage were destroyed today when fire swept the six story plant of the National Cold Storage Company, on the Brooklyn water front. Damage was estimated at $60,000.

SHIPYARDS WILL RUN ALL WINTER

Practically every shipyard along the Rondout creek has enough work on hand to keep it busy all winter, and work will be continued on the yards as long as weather conditions permit. Barge building is being pushed rapidly and a number of bottoms have been laid, and it is expected that they will be completed and launched before stopped by weather conditions.

SOLDIERS HONOR LIEUT. CASHIN

Welcomed Home From Officers' Training School at Fort Sill by Local Guardsmen by Banquet Given at Lake Katrine.

LIEUT. E. LE ROY CASHIN.

A banquet in honor of Lieutenant E. LeRoy Cashin was held Monday evening at Cuneo's Hotel at Lake Katrine by the members of Battery E, 132nd Ammunition train. The occasion was the return of Lieut. Cashin to the local battery from Fort Sill, Oklahoma, where he had been taking a course at the field artillery service school of the U. S. Army.

Besides the members of the battery, the following guests were present to welcome Lieutenant Cashin: Captain Sisson, who served in the late World War with the 126th Infantry, Captain Hiltebrant and Lieutenant Behrens of local Battery I, Lieutenants Bence and Dittus, of old Company M, 10th Infantry, Sergeant Mullen of old Company M, and Sergeant Fitzgerald, of Battery I.

During the evening talks were given by members who saw service overseas with Lieutenant Cashin and some very interesting experiences were told. Lieut. Hervey Keator was the toastmaster.

The following menu was served: Oysters on half shell, olives, celery, pickles, spaghetti, mashed potatoes, peas, roast Ulster county chicken, ice cream, cake and coffee.

Lieutenant Cashin was a member of old Company M, having enlisted in that outfit in 1908. During the World War he was a member of the 27th Division and was commissioned first lieutenant. Following the signing of the armistice he served with the Army of Occupation in Germany as Provost of the American Police. Upon his return to this city he joined the local battery as lieutenant, instructing the newly enlisted men.

REVOLUTIONISTS ASK KING TO LEAVE GREECE

By Telegraph to The Freeman

London, Dec. 18.—Premier Gonatas and Colonel Plastiras, head of the revolutionary committee, have signed a letter asking King George to leave Greece, according to a Central News dispatch from Athens today.

It is reported that King George has telegraphed former Premier Elentherios Venizelos to return to Greece from Paris, where he has been living since the conclusion of the Near East peace conference at Lausanne.

An official dispatch to the foreign office at Athens said powerful political leaders in Greece had requested King George to leave, but only until a new cabinet is formed.

GERMANS NOW HOPE FOR "INVISIBLE OCCUPATION"

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, Dec. 18.—Following the receipt of the Franco-Belgian reply to Dr. Von Hoesch's representations at Paris, German officials were confident today that arrangements can be made to restore German civil administration in the Ruhr and Rhineland.

Intimation is given that some of the occupying troops will be withdrawn and that France and Belgium will establish "invisible occupation."

Further negotiations are likely before the end of this week.

KING OF GREECE DEFIES ENEMIES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Athens, Dec. 18.—Hostile demonstration against the royal family broke out here today. Soldiers and sailors took part. The demonstrators paraded the streets shouting:

"Down with King George."

When King George received a message from Colonel Plastiras and Premier Gonatas requesting him to leave the country at least temporarily, he is said to have replied:

"I will not leave. Whoever dares to attempt to remove me, let him try."

And Then He Goes.

Paris, Dec. 18.—King George of Greece departed from Athens for Rumania this morning, according to a news agency despatch received here this evening.

The king had been requested to leave by Colonel Plastiras, of the revolutionary committee and Premier Gonatos, owing to growing hostility against the Hellenic royal family.

NAVIGATION ON HUDSON RIVER

Tows Still Running Between New York and Albany—Central-Hudson Line to Run Until Stopped by Ice—Coal Trestle Closed Here.

Navigation is still practically in full swing on the Hudson river, although the passenger lines have ceased service for the season, with the exception of the Central-Hudson Line steamers. Towing is still brisk for this season of the year.

The Hudson Navigation Company has ceased operations for the season between Albany and New York. The steamer Rensselaer will remain in Albany, while the steamer Berkshire will winter at Athens.

The Central-Hudson Line steamer Jacob H. Tremper will make its last trip between Albany and Newburgh on December 21, but the other steamers of the line will continue operating between Kingston and New York until stopped by the ice.

River towing is gradually slowing up although there is still large shipments of brick, sand and cement. A large tow will leave Albany today for New York. There is no more coal being shipped out of the Rondout creek this season as the coal trestle closed down last week.

With the slowing up of river towing the Cornell line is beginning to lay up its tugs. It is expected, however, that enough tugs will be kept in commission to handle what towing there is and that the season will continue open as long as the present weather conditions exist.

HUGHES REJECTS RUSSIA'S LATEST BID FOR RECOGNITION

Time is Not Yet Ripe for Negotiations With a View to Recognition of Soviet Government Secretary of State Tells U. S. Consul at Reval.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Dec. 18.—Sharp rejection, stated in the briefest and most cogent way possible, today met Soviet Russia's new bid for American recognition and her expressed desire for a resumption of cordial relationship that existed between the United States and Russia prior to the Soviet regime.

Secretary of State Hughes instructed the American consul at Reval to inform the Soviet authorities at Moscow that the note from M. Tchitcherin, the Soviet foreign minister, received at the White House yesterday, does not offer any basis for negotiations so far as the United States is concerned.

Secretary Hughes's rejection of the Soviet offer was terse, almost brusque. He declared, in effect, that before there can be any contact nce between the two governments, the Soviets must first demonstrate their good faith and good intent by restoring American property confiscated during the revolution, acknowledge their debts, and cease their propagandizing against American institutions.

He denied specifically that the United States is any way indebted to Russia, thus disposing of the "reciprocal adjustment of debts" suggestion made by the Soviet foreign minister in his note to President Coolidge yesterday.

Secretary Hughes sent the following message to Harold B. Quarton, consul at Reval, with instructions to present it to the Soviet representative there for transmission to Moscow:

"There would seem to be at this time no reason for negotiations. The American government, as the president stated, in his message to the congress, is not proposing to barter away its principles.

"If the Soviet authorities are ready to restore the confiscated property of American citizens or make effective compensation, they can do so. If the Soviet authorities are ready to repeal their decree repudiating Russia's obligations to this country and appropriately recognize them, they can do so.

"It requires no conference or negotiations to accomplish these results, which can and should be achieved at Moscow as evidence of good faith. The American government has not incurred liabilities to Russia or repudiated obligations. Most serious is the continued propaganda to overthrow the institutions of this country. This government can enter into no negotiations until these efforts directed from Moscow are abandoned."

The American reply was announced at the White House as having the unqualified approval of President Coolidge. He conferred with Hughes before its transmission. President Coolidge considers it was stated, that no action is necessary by this government on the Russian note other than the reply which Hughes sent.

He believes that Russia should acknowledge her debts, cease her propaganda and make restitution in general as a preliminary to any conference.

M'ADOO'S HAT NOW IN THE RING

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec 18.—William Gibbs McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, war time director of railroads and son-in-law of former President Wilson, today was an avowed candidate for the presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket. McAdoo formally tossed his hat into the ring in a telegram to W. W. Howes, Democratic state chairman, at Pierre, S. D., in which he said:

"Having filed my formal acceptance of the platform adopted by the Democratic proposal convention, as required by South Dakota law, I desire again to express my appreciation of the honor conveyed upon me by the convention and to say that I am willing to fight with, and for the people of South Dakota in support of the progressive principles espoused by the convention.

"We shall get no relief from the burdens now oppressing us, nor shall we progress in any direction, through the Republican policies of stand-stillism and wistful wishing for these problems to solve themselves. The Democratic party stands for progress and popular rights. It welcomes the opportunity to do battle for them."

FEDERALS DEFEAT MEXICAN REBELS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Tampico, Mex., Dec. 18.—Federal troops have inflicted crushing defeat upon the rebels at San Marcos, capturing 200 prisoners, according to advices received from Mexico City this afternoon.

The federals also captured a large supply of munitions and a naval gun which has been dismounted from a gun boat and carried inland to reenforce the land artillery.

San Marcos lies at the junction of the Inter Oceanic and Mexicano Railways and is the "key city" to the eastern coast.

The battle has been in progress more than 12 hours.

The victory is regarded here as predicting the early defeat of the Huertista rebels, who are reported in retreat destroying railways and bridges as they retire.

JAIL LOOMS FOR INDICTED WOMEN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Troy, N. Y., Dec 18.—Jail cells loomed today for Mrs. Charles R. Rothenberg of Newark, N. J., and her sister, Mrs. Esther Litt, of Brooklyn.

Unless they can furnish bail of $35,000 fixed for each following their indictment at Catskill Friday on a charge of murder in connection with the strangling of seven-year-old Howard Rothenberg, they will go to jail tonight, it was stated, because they have violated a court stipulation that they remain within the jurisdiction of Greene county authorities.

The sisters were taken into custody here and placed under guard in a suite at the Hotel Rensselaer, pending the arrival of Sheriff Pierce of Greene county.

The Servant Problem Solved

Practical Housekeeping

Modern Methods for the Household

Clara Homer Sears - Editor

HAPPY HOME IS THE RESULT OF HAPPY THOUGHT

Ease and Leisure Result From Modern Methods of Housekeeping.

In certain homes there is a delightful air of ease and comfort. Servants seem altogether lacking; the housewife enjoys ample, unhurried leisure, and yet the household moves smoothly and effortlessly on, as if by magic—everything well cared for on time, without bother or flurry.

The explanation, however, is simple. These are the homes of people who have recognized and made use of the greatest comfort of the age—electricity.

In the kitchen of these homes will be found the most modern of labor savers—an electric dish washer, which dries as well—a combination egg beater and meat chopper—an electrically driven ice cream freezer—perhaps even an electric refrigerator, which banishes the iceman forever from the realm of the kitchen. A peep into the basement reveals an electric washer and an ironing machine, mute testimony to the spotless linen used above stairs.

Dining in these modern homes is a joy incomparable. Tempting, delicious foods sometimes cooked before one's eyes at table—the electric grill, samovar, chafing dish, percolator and toaster—straight from their glowing fretwork comes an entire meal, savory and piping hot! No wonder it is easy to play hostess in such a setting!

Through the living room we move, stopping to admire the side wall sconces and the artistic floor lamp—pausing a moment at the radio—or dancing a measure or two to the electric phonograph—then on into the bedroom where spotless order reigns. On the dresser an electric hair dryer, curling iron and a vibrator furnish more evidence of thought and care. Searching for the plug to start the dryer, reveals an amazing fact—the dresser itself is wired. One has but to sit at the mirror and change appliances.

This discovery brings an interesting discussion, and the fortunate lady of the house, walking from room to room, points out the underlying secret.

"Have plenty of outlets installed when you have your house wired," she says, "baseboard and wall both, for though you may not have all the appliances at first, you will sometime for it is only in this way that you can enjoy the ultra-convenience of electricity."

A happy home is the result of happy thought, and there never was a happier thought that the application to electricity to workaday tasks.

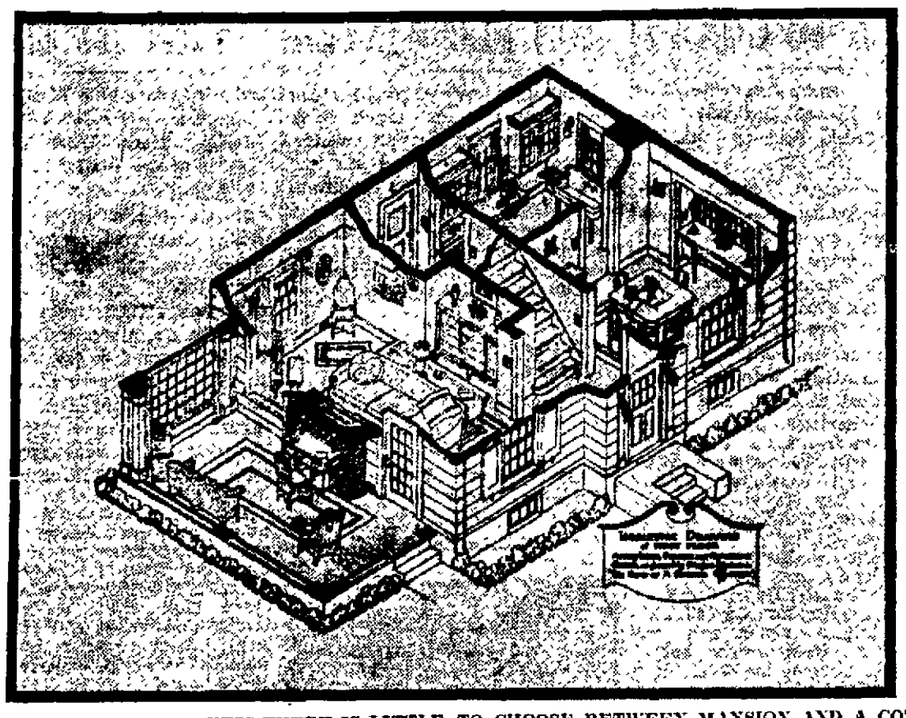
HAVE YOU LIGHTS THAT ARE KIND TO YOUR EYES?

Light, properly controlled and directed, is poured in a soft illuminating glow over surfaces one wishes to see clearly. Left to run wild, it is wasted in glare and brilliance which is wearying, inefficient and harmful to eyesight and nerve energy.

When the incandescent lamp first came into use, it was installed in thousands of homes in lighting fixtures whose design was purposed for the earlier illuminants. So long as the old-style electric lamp was used, this equipment, while not by any means ideal, was permissible. It involved the use of transparent or semi-transparent shades and reflectors, originally devised for shielding flames from draughts; and though these did not protect the eyes from light sources, still those sources were of moderate brilliancy, and not especially menacing to eyesight.

But the brilliant electric lamp of the present day, which because of its economic efficiency in supplying light has replaced the milder incandescent lamp in home lighting, has altered conditions very materially.

The adaptation of this new science of illumination to home lighting offers wide opportunities for individual expression. Beauty walks hand in hand with utility, and light is being found so flexible, so expressive, that besides illuminating it can be made either to create a picture in itself or to temper and shade the picture it touches into a variety of charming moods. Although the essential element in home lighting must be abundant and efficient illumination, yet there is also an aesthetic possibility that grows greater day by day.



IN THE QUEST FOR HAPPINESS THERE IS LITTLE TO CHOOSE BETWEEN MANSION AND A COTTAGE IF BOTH BE COMPLETELY WIRED. THE SERVICE OF ELECTRICITY HAS MADE EACH THE HOME OF A HUNDRED COMFORTS.

Never Takes a Day Off.

"She never has to have a day off nor asks for higher wages." This praise is indeed merited by the electric servant-maid who has entered our back door, modestly, quietly and swiftly, by way of a slender wire. If you like her she will stay with you forever and ever, asking only that you give her work to do. She has no feet that tire, no back that can ache and her mistress is not afraid to impose labor of housekeeping and housecleaning upon her by day or night.

Saves the Hands.

The housewife who uses an electric dish-washer never has to wonder "What will my hands look like?" when she gets through with the dish washing three times a day. She never has to touch a dish except to scrape its contents into the garbage, and her hands never have to come in contact with soapy, greasy water.

Every man likes to remember the touch of the soft hand that thrilled him during the days of courtship, and every wife wishes that she could keep such hands. There is no better way for a woman who has to do her own housework to retain such hands than to own and use an electric dishwasher.

DECORATIVE LAMPS AND UTILITY LIGHTING

The Woman of Taste Reflects Much of Her Own Individuality and Charm in the Lamps Which She Selects For Her Home.

"One might find quite an amusing pastime in guessing the character and personality of the unknown owner of a room by the lamps she is willing to live with," said Miss Elsie de Wolfe, prominent interior decorator, "and yet many people continue to exist in unattractive surroundings just because they have not realized the decorative possibilities and value of lamps."

There are two primary factors to be considered in the selection of lamps—namely, color and type. The size, shape and character of the room determine the type of the lamp, and the general color scheme—the background, as it were—determines the color of the lamp base and of the shade that will best bring out the decorative qualities of wall or floor coverings, furnishings, hangings and the like.

Simplicity and Neutrality Underlying Principles of Decoration.

The attractively furnished home is not necessarily the mansion, nor is the quaint cottage the only structure that lends itself to coziness of decoration. Simplicity and neutrality of color are the secrets which underlie all that is truly artistic in a scheme of decoration. The spacious, low-ceilinged rooms of an old farm house have the same decorative possibilities as the modern apartment or town house, if a neutral color scheme is held to, depending upon lamps and art objects to introduce the necessary spots of color.

While no set rules can be prescribed, certain fundamental principles, if adhered to, will guarantee beauty and restfulness, the two most important qualifications in the house that is a home.

Wired Vases and Gay Lamp Shades Add Vivid Touch.

Simplicity of design and neutrality of color are well exemplified in a combination of sand color and old blue. There are unlimited decorative possibilities in a room with sand colored walls and white woodwork, sand and brown rug, gold colored silk curtains and sand and old blue brocade for hangings and upholstered furniture. The vivid spots of color in such a room would be found in the wired vases for lamps and gay colored shades which adore them. Vases of blue glazed porcelain would be unusually decorative in such a room either as lamps or as art objects, and if gold colored silk shades were used on the lamps they would add an attractive bit of color to the room by night or by day.

Side wall illumination should suggest center ceiling illumination and is gaining favor constantly. Attractive floor lamps and side wall brackets are being featured for practically every room in the house.

In the room outlined above the shades on side wall lamps may be of gold silk, parchment or amber translucent glass. The latter is by far the most desirable for utility lighting—that is to say, the lamp used for reading, sewing or other class work should be shaded with translucent glass if eye strain and fatigue are to be avoided. While parchment and silken shades are decorative, recent developments in the science of illumination have conclusively proved that glass is by far the best medium for utility lighting.

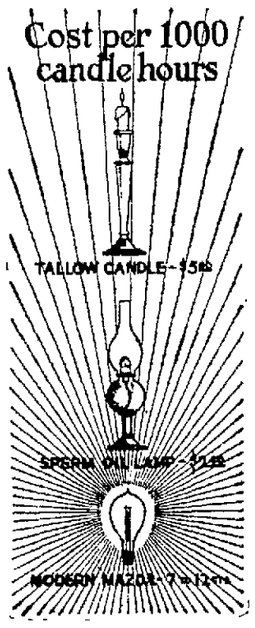
Electrify Your Home



We hear a good deal about the new era in industry. The revolution that is taking place in congested industrial communities—a process of decentralization to places where working and living conditions are more favorable because of the new giant, ELECTRIC POWER, being available.

A similar revolution is taking place in the American household. Old methods of housekeeping, that depended upon human labor, are giving way to the new servant in the home—ELECTRIC SERVICE.

Not so long ago electricity was looked upon merely as a means of furnishing light for the home. But during the past few years inventive genius has perfected various mechanical appliances that do the work formerly done by hand, and do it quicker, better and cheaper.

Progressive housewives, the country over, who have had no end of difficulties with the servant problem, have gained a new independence and leisure through intelligent use of electric appliances.

If you are interested to know more about the possibilities of this new electric servant, send for a copy of the comprehensive and beautifully illustrated book, "The Home of a Hundred Comforts." It contains many helpful hints in the text and illustrations, and also in the charts of the various rooms of the home from the standpoint of efficient housekeeping. These books will be furnished entirely gratis and there is no obligation on the part of any housewife applying for a copy. Don't miss this opportunity for securing what is probably the most up-to-date publication on this particular subject.

Tiers Feature of Tailored Clothes

Succession of Flounces Affords Popular Fashion in Paris.

Multitudes of tiers are apparent on the new tailored clothes for the winter season. There is hardly an important Paris dressmaker who does not use this idea more or less, according to a fashion writer in the New York Tribune. In spite of the many flounces the outline remains straight and skimpy. Some of the great designers feature long tunics that fall straight from the shoulders to the knees, where the widening process begins. Worth has so many of these that they appear almost like a trademark. Jenny also shows many of them. They are usually beltless.

Callot makes a lovely interpretation of the tiered skirt in a model which is developed in her favorite blue trimmed with light blue, a seemingly old-fashioned and somewhat provincial color combination except under the artistry of Callot. She gives it an early Victorian touch by adding a cream lace collar and cuff bands. This dress is made up of a succession of flounces, each finished with a tiny silk tassel.

A similar model from Worth is a practically straightline dress, despite its tiers of flounces, open slightly from shoulder to hemline to show a foundation of white crepe georgette. It, too, is made up of a multiple of flounces and is trimmed with numerous little tassels. The collar and cuffs are of brown fur, the collar holding in gathers of the bodice.

Frock of Navy Blue Serge.

One of Premet's interpretations of the flounced skirt is named Biloquet, and it is one of her most popular dresses. The frock itself is of navy blue serge. Three groups of shaped flounces which trim the narrow sheath fitting skirt are piped with red silk.

Premet is showing many youthful styles. She sponsors the straight silhouette with fairly short skirt and either very low waistline or without belt or girdle. Nearly all of her models have long, tight sleeves. The most important feature in her frock is their simple boyishness.

One of the boyish models, destined to repeat the success of "La Garconne" of last season, is developed from navy blue reps with a black suede belt and a red galalith buckle. Many Parisiennes are ordering this dress for their winter wardrobes.

Cherult introduces crinoline basques on tailored suits and petticoat flouncings underneath evening dresses. The newest Cherult suits are actually stuffed with haircloth over the hips, which causes a wide distention of the circular-cut basque flaps.

On one of these extraordinary crinoline tailored suits, the hoop-like basque of an otherwise straight jacket is lined with haircloth. The skirt is as straight as it can be and the jacket of the simplest cut except for the hip extension.

All the smart world has flocked to Biarritz, where the social life changes from that of hotel and casinos to sumptuous villas, set high on the rugged Franco-Spanish coast. Biarritz is most cosmopolitan. One wonders whether it is more Spanish than French or whether it is more English and American than either.

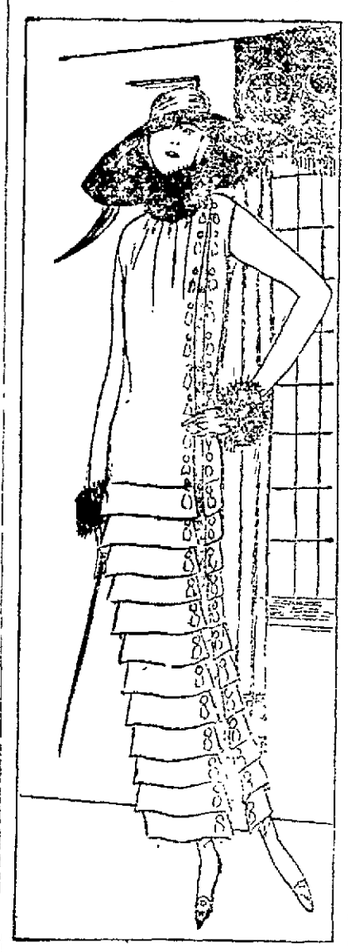
Sports Clothes in Evidence.

Each colony vies with the other in the brilliancy of its entertainments and each set intermingles freely. The golf club, the bathing beach and Miremont, where everyone goes for a "bracer" and a sandwich after the morning dip, are the only public rendezvous.

In the Spanish element there is a strong tincture of South American grandees, wealthy people from the Argentine, from Chile and from Brazil. These people are among the most extravagant spenders. Many wealthy South American widows and daughters of wealthy families have married into the French aristocracy; likewise have rich South American men married titled Spanish, English and French women. Nowhere is this more apparent than at Biarritz. The English queen on the Spanish throne has given proof of happy intermarriage. Thus the social life of Biarritz is like a kaleidoscope of nationality.

All pleasure-loving folk find at Biarritz a sort of reaction from the tense and artificial life of casinos and hotels in European watering places. They relax into golf, tennis, swimming, horseback riding, and many of the men play polo. The Spanish element, tending toward more exciting sport, leads some of the fashionable crowd to the bull fights, which are given every week in both Bayonne, a small city which touches Biarritz, and at San Sebastian, which is just a pleasant day's run by motor. Then the national Basque game, "pelotte," attracts fashionable crowds, who watch with enthusiasm the marvelous skill of the vigorous Basque peasant as he plays his favorite game.



A Worth Model Showing Multiple Flounces and Numerous Tassels. It Is Trimmed With Fur.

All of this out-of-door life speaks for sports clothes, and nowhere in Europe does one find more beautiful out-of-door pastime clothes than at Biarritz. All the big dressmakers of Paris make showings of their winter collections in Biarritz, and without exception their orders are for sports clothes and their accessories much more than for more ceremonious garments.

Velvets in Oriental Coloring.

Colorful simplicity was the keynote of the Biarritz season. Dresses cut on the simplest lines were made of beautiful printed or embroidered fabrics or were in two-tone or two-color combinations. One got the first peek, at Biarritz, of Vionnet's new printed velvets, Oriental in colorings and design from a standpoint of fabric, but cut in straight coat effect, lapping widely in manteau style. Chanel took numberless orders on high-color prints in "Art Nouveau" Oriental designs, making one think somewhat of the marvelous brocades of the Louis XV period, but with no stint of brilliant color in their reproduction.

Jenny and Rence sold many two-color models, notably white with brilliant flashes of crimson, green and yellow, seemingly almost an accessory, but in reality a part of the dress. The color was introduced in a straight panel or attached underneath a widely lapping front, or as a cascading flounce, as plaiting under the arm, as a lining for a capucine hood-like arrangement on the back of the dress and hundreds of times in the form of smartly adjusted printed handkerchiefs or scarfs.

In fact, there were many dresses made entirely of printed handkerchief squares or long, printed scarfs. They were so simple in design that one might easily have thought that the wearer had simply adjusted the handkerchief or scarf herself as a sort of decorative after thought. They had no semblance of being actually made into the dress. Thus the artistry of handkerchief and scarf adjustment reached its height.

Negligees Rival Evening Mantles.

Equally prominent are the wonderful metal brocades forming teagowns. Magnificent lame, erstwhile deemed appropriate only for gorgeous evening mantles, is now used for those luxurious indoor garments. Many of them are thickly wadded and lined with hand-quilted crepe georgette. Most of them have the stuffed border roll of the Japanese garments. In fact, many of them are quite Japanese in form. Chinese effects also are being copied in indoor garments and there are any number of "Art Nouveau" and impressionistic designs in embroidery and prints.

In addition to the indoor garment, which is frankly a negligee, there are others more or less ceremonious in type which look exactly like gorgeous evening mantles or dainty afternoon dresses. The line between the intimate garment or so-called negligee and the dress for public use is very finely

Charles Dana Gibson is quoted as saying that some of the greatest artists in the world have never drawn or painted a picture. Trust an artist to be sarcastic at the expense of the critics

The recent Thanksgiving is said to have been the first without strikes in many years. What excuse is there for strikes when wages are so high and savings bank deposits are piling up at an unprecedented rate?

To a New England Methodist minister is attributed the prediction that women pastors will in time fill the majority of the pulpits in rural districts. The lack of a living wage keeps out of them many men with families to support even now.

Senator Magnus Johnson has challenged the secretary of agriculture to a cow-milking contest, which is chiefly interesting as suggesting the question as to how many milkers there are in the Senate and House who have never been within touching distance of a cow.

In view of the rumors flying about Paris after the death or suicide of Leon Daudet's son, a boy of 14 years, no wonder the sensation is great. The father, a leader of the monarchists, holds that his son was murdered by the anarchists, but according to one of a number of stories the boy joined the anarchists, was detailed to kill his own father, and preferred to take his own life.

McADOO'S TURN-TABLE.

"Avid of gold, yet greedier of renown," William G. McAdoo is making an occasional recantation regarding government ownership of railroads. It is his hope that this volte-face will bring him the support of those who have heretofore recoiled from the McAdoovian attempt to socialize the Democratic Party. In a recent address to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen in San Francisco, Mr. McAdoo is quoted as saying:

I do not believe that government ownership is the wisest solution. An earnest effort should be made to secure railroad reforms preserving the principle of private operation, but under more effective federal regulation. If that fails after a final test, government ownership may become inevitable.

Thus does the agile ex-Secretary of the Treasury twice convict himself of political apostasy, for having, by his attitude, created something of a following among those who would nationalize the railroads, he deserts them in the beginning of a campaign believing that the support of those opposed to socialistic doctrine will be more effective in furthering his ambition. And, of course, it was apostasy to the party of Thomas Jefferson, pioneer champion of "less business in government" to encourage the idea of government ownership in the first place. But should Providence see fit to chastise us with four spoliating years of McAdoo's administration, he could with characteristic facility switch to government ownership again, as a general policy, if need be, whereby a body of voters connected with the government payroll might be built up to perpetuate his control even beyond the second-term sanction. It is even easier to violate a precedent than a creed.

THE PARCEL POST.

For many years powerful influences prevented the establishment of our parcel post system. Long before it finally went into operation a cabinet officer frankly and humorously remarked that there were just five reasons why we had no parcel post, mentioning the names of five great express companies. The extent of the need is indicated by recent figures showing the amount of business done. Although it is only ten years since the parcel post service went into operation, we read that the volume of business thus handled has reached two billion packages a year, which is five times as much traffic as any express company handles. The range of parcel post articles is said to run all the way from sample bricks to live chickens a day old, all sorts of merchandise being shipped in that service. It is found that parcel post service requires such different handling from that of letters that the postal authorities now find it necessary to consider the need of establishing a separate bureau and staff to meet its peculiar needs. A minor change made recently in the handling of this service called for the addition of 7,000 operators. The business now exceeds $600,000,000 and it is expected in no great while to reach the billion dollar mark.

How vast an enterprise is our postal service as a whole appears from the statement that Americans write twelve billion letters a year or 109 letters annually for each inhabitant. Our postal service is the largest business enterprise in the world and involves problems of management requiring experts of life-long experience. The importance of civil service reform regulations in this department is obvious.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.,

DOES YOUR COUGH HANG ON?

You have had a "cold" which came on in the usual way, namely sore throat, running of the eyes and nose, and a little hoarseness and tightness in the throat.

It seemed to go down into your chest and although you coughed considerably you got very little sputum In a few days the sputum became looser, the pain in the chest got less and you get all right again.

Perhaps two or three weeks in all and you were better.

On the other hand perhaps the cough seemed to hang on.

Now what about it?

Well, you've had an ordinary attack of bronchitis which is not a serious thing in itself with the average person.

This attack should clear up in three or four weeks. If it doesn't, then it would be well to watch yourself.

While I'm the last one to alarm anybody still there are some symptoms to keep in mind.

If the cough persists, and yet you are sleeping all right, eating all right, have no pain, soreness, nor temperature, then an extra couple or three weeks of coughing need not alarm you.

However, if besides the cough there is a tired out feeling generally, loss of appetite, loss of weight and some afternoon temperature, you can guess what I'm thinking about.

There is no question about it, but that some of these ordinary "colds" which go on to bronchitis are simply the forerunners of tuberculosis. When tuberculosis experts inform us that we all have more or less tuberculosis in some part of us, you can readily see the danger to a body weakened by illness and the constant coughing.

Now what's my suggestion?

Just the same as in previous articles, that at the first sign of a real cold that you get into bed in a well ventilated room.

Then the old fashioned methods of treatment are still good enough.

You know what they are.

First, something to clear out the intestine.

Then something in the way of hot drinks to induce perspiration.

If the chest is tight or sore, the old reliable mustard plaster may be used.

No food whatever for a day or two and then light foods.

This will not only bring you around sooner, but may prevent that dangerous thing tuberculosis from getting a foothold in that body of yours.

Accord, Dec. 17.—The cement work at the Farmers' Cooperative feed store has been completed and a millwright is at the plant preparing to install the new grinding machinery, elevators, etc.

Steven Wood was in town on Saturday.

There will be a dance at the Accord Odd Fellows' Hall on Wednesday evening, December 19. Round and square dances. Music will be furnished by Mead's six piece orchestra of Arkville, N. Y.

There will be no rural free delivery service from Accord on Christmas Day, December 25. This is in accordance with a recent amendment to the postal laws and regulations, which designate Christmas as a holiday for all rural carriers.

Plans for the community Christmas tree to be held at Accord on Monday evening, December 24, are not quite completed. Details will be announced later.

The pupils of the Accord School will hold their Christmas entertainment at the Accord M. E. Church Hall on Friday evening, December 21, at 8 o'clock.

The ladies of the Country Women's Club will hold their monthly dinner at the M. E. Church Hall on Thursday, December 20, at noon.

The Christmas missionary service, which was planned for Sunday evening, December 16, was postponed one week and will be given on Sunday evening, December 23, at the Reformed Church.

The play, "Those Dreadful Twins," given in I. O. O. F. Hall on Wednesday, December 12, was a success both in attendance and financially. The hall was taxed to its capacity, there being over 300 paid admissions. The total receipts were $141.85. The committee in charge of this home talent play has had several requests to repeat the play in different localities.

COTTEKILL.

Cottekill, Dec. 17.—The fourth annual Community Christmas service will be held in the Cottekill Reformed Church on Saturday evening, December 22. The service will start at 7:30 o'clock. There will be recitations by the younger scholars of the Sunday school, class songs, solos and duets, by the larger members of the school. There will be plenty of community singing of songs that are familiar to all. There will be a Christmas tree and presents for the primary and first grade scholars of the school, and any person may put presents on the tree for outside people, and same will be given out after the presents for the school have been distributed. Of course there will be a Santa Claus, that is if he keeps his promise to the superintendent, for he advised him that he would arrive there at about nine o'clock, making a special trip to do so, in order not to disappoint the children.

Candy and fruit will be given to all the children and unmarried people who are present, and ice cream and cake will be furnished free to everyone present. No admission, no collection taken. Everything free. A series of stereopticon views on "Daily Life in Palestine," will be shown during the evening. A very cordial invitation is extended to all. Come out and help us sing the community songs, enjoy the entertainment and the refreshments, meet your friends and neighbors and for one evening at least, let us forget the cares and worries of everyday life, and be filled with the joy and love of the Christmas time. Service will be held regardless of the weather.

ZENA.

Zena, Dec. 17.—A social and entertainment will be given in the Reformed Church Hall on Tuesday evening, December 18. All the ladies are requested to bring a box with lunch for two. If stormy next fair evening.

For Christmas Give Her A ROYAL

LEIBHARDT.

Leibhardt, Dec. 17.—Preaching services will be held in the M. E. Church Wednesday evening, December 26th, conducted by the pastor, the Rev. W. W. Churchill.

Mrs. A. Gullickson and Charles Hilderbrant were guests of Mrs. Phoebe Krom one evening last week.

Harry Brown, Gilbert Quick and Otis Miller have returned home from Newburgh.

A Christmas entertainment will be held in the M. E. Church Monday evening, December 24th. A fine program entitled, "The Shepherds of Old" is being arranged by the teachers and scholars of the Sunday school including appropriate Christmas songs, recitations, dialogues and tableaux, also a shepherd drill by several young ladies. Free admission and everybody welcome. There will be a Christmas tree and presents for the scholars.

The Misses Meriam and Kathryn Brown will leave on Tuesday, December 25th, to spend their holiday vacations with their sister, Miss Louella Brown and other friends in New York city.

A number from this place are planning on attending the Christmas entertainment at Tabasco school house Friday evening, December 21st. It is said a pleasing program is being arranged by the teacher, Miss Rennie Greene and her scholars of the day school.

POOLED MILK FOR NOVEMBER $2.43

With "Milk War" On, Producers Hadn't Expected Over $2.00, Says Dairymen's League—Non-Pool Returns Shrink.

The Dairymen's League News says:

The announcement by the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., of a gross pool price of $2.43 to be paid members for milk sold during the month of November has caused dairymen everywhere throughout the length and breadth of League territory to 'sit up and take notice' as the saying goes. In view of the chaotic conditions in the fluid milk market which officials of the League declare were precipitated by the policy of the Sheffield Farms Company, many farmers of the pool-association had anticipated a much lower price. In fact, reports had been circulated by some of the non-pooling groups to the effect that the League pool price for November was going to be less than $2.00. League farmers consequently are receiving this news about their November milk price with a great deal of pleasant surprise. They are appreciating it more because the checks which they will soon receive for this milk will be their Christmas checks and it will enable them to buy a few more Christmas presents than many of them had anticipated. The November gross pool price of $2.43 is one cent higher than for the previous month of October. The item of expenses is the same as for the preceding month, namely ten cents per one hundred pounds which gives the pool farmer a net pool base price of $2.33 per one hundred pounds. This includes ten cents for a certificate of indebtedness.

In contrast to this the farmers outside the pooling association who sell to such dealers as the Sheffield Farms Company, Empire State Dairy Company, and others are faced with a considerable shrinkage in their November checks as compared with what they received for October. They saw with some consternation the price of $3.05 agreed upon by the Sheffield Farms Company at the beginning of the month drop on November 17th to $2.68, a sheer reduction of forty-seven cents per one hundred pounds.

HOSPITAL NEEDS OLD LINEN FOR SUFFERING CHILDREN

In this season of kindly thought for others, send some pieces of old linen to the Kingston City Hospital for use in relieving the suffering of some little patients in the children's ward who were severely burned.

Old table cloths, napkins or handkerchiefs make ideal dressings for these cases and are much needed just now. Please leave at the hospital marked with your name and the words "old linen."

MODERNIST SPLIT GROWING WIDER

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, Dec. 18.—The ecclesiastical dispute within the Protestant Episcopal Church, centering around "modernist" denials of the virgin birth of Christ, assumed greater proportions today.

Demand that "the five hundred heretics," clergymen from all sections of the United States enrolled in the Modern Churchmen's Union, be tried by an ecclesiastical court, was made today by the Rev. Dr. Karl Reiland, rector of St. George's Episcopal Church.

At the same time the Rev. Dr. Alexander G. Cummins, treasurer of the union, and pastor of Christ Episcopal Church, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., announced subscriptions for the fight were piling up.

The Rev. Lee Heaton, the Fort Worth, Texas, clergyman, whose Palm Sunday sermon questioning the virgin birth as set forth in the Nicene Creed, brought the dispute of the "modernists" and "fundamentalists" to a head, was on his way back to Texas to stand trial.

"Let the House of Bishops try Dr. Heaton at their peril," Dr. Reiland warned today. "They must try us all—Bishop William Lawrence of Massachusetts, Dr. Percy Stickney Grant of the Church of the Ascension, Dr. Walter Russell Bowie of Grace Church, Dr. Leighton Parks, myself, and all the other five hundred 'heretics' who believe as Dr. Heaton believes."

Bishop William T. Manning, head of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, remained silent today, denying himself to interviewers.

Churches other than those of the Episcopal faith became entangled in the dispute.

The Unitarian Ministers' Association passed resolutions supporting the "modernists."

The New York Presbytery, the Presbyterian ministers of the city, bitterly condemned those who deny the virgin birth.

Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes, head of the Catholic Church in New York, issued a pastoral letter to all priests in the diocese in which he said:

"The spirit of Herod, Nero and Julian, the apostate—avowed enemies of Christ in their day—has come back to plague the world. Others are following in the spirit of Herod, Nero and Julian. Some out-Herod-Herod by denying the divinity and virgin birth of the Babe of Bethlehem. Back to paganism is the watchword it seems."

Bishop Lawrence, leader of the "modernist" group within the Episcopal churches, arrived here today. He declined to comment on the controversy.

The "modernists" charged the Rev. Heaton, the Fort Worth minister, was to be tried by a "handpicked jury."

"Of course we know Dr. Heaton will be convicted of heresy in Texas, his judges have already been selected," the Rev. Stuart L. Tyson, vicar at the cathedral of St. John the Divine, said. "But we will appeal the conviction and retain the best attorney in New York to defend Dr. Heaton before the court of review and before the general convention of the Episcopal church if need be."

BUILD LEGION HALL IN DAY

Olympia (Ore.) Citizens Erect Structure at Yelm, Wash.

In token of community friendship and good will Olympia, Wash. sent nearly 500 workers to the town of Yelm, in the southeastern part of Thurston county, to erect the new American Legion community hall there. The building lacked only the finishing details.

Olympia's best talent was on the job. A force of nearly 100 carpenters and builders wearing new overalls did most of the work. They were reinforced by Olympia members of the American Legion, the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, the Olympia chamber of commerce and other citizens.

Simple Way to Clean Dark and Light Furs

Dark furs, such as sable, chinchilla, squirrel, fitch, etc., may be cleaned in this way, according to a writer: Heat a quantity of new bran in a pan, taking care that it does not burn, and stir constantly. When well heated, rub thoroughly into the fur. Repeat two or three times. Shake the fur and brush briskly until free from dust. Light furs, such as ermine, etc., may be cleaned in the following way: Lay the fur on a table and rub with bran moistened with warm water. Rub until dry, then rub with dry bran. Use flannel for rubbing with wet bran and book muslin for the dry. After using the bran, rub with magnesia. Dry flour may be used instead of wet bran. Rub against the way of the fur.

PICTURES—FRAMED AND UNFRAMED

Why not give a lovely landscape or a dainty water color? Nothing would delight a friend more than a well chosen picture. But be sure IT IS WELL-CHOSEN. How often friends suffer from the effect of a picture which is a nightmare but must have a conspicuous place in an otherwise well appointed home—the gift of some dear friend who didn't know.

We have a fine assortment of pictures by well-known artists whose work is always pleasing, always accceptable. One of our most popular pictures at the present time is "Day Break" by Maxfield Parish with special frame toned to harmonize with picture.

Here are also colored nature prints by David Davidson, Thompson Lawson, Bicknell, Curtis and Gibson.

BOOKS

We have so many for all kinds and conditions of readers that we could fill a book with their titles. All we can say here is that books become friends of those who own them—so choose wisely and let them be GOOD friends. Of course, books of new fiction predominate but there are handsome illustrated editions of standard works bound in leather or cloth, and there are hundreds of books for the young people and the very little people. Toy books, paint and crayon drawing boxes and lots of little books just large enough to go in the Christmas stocking. Dictionaries, (Webster's New International), Bibles, Prayer Books and Religious Articles.

USE MOLYBDENUM IN MAKING STEEL

Experiments Show It to Be Very Powerful Element.

NEW ALLOY LITTLE KNOWN

That molybdenum is one of the most powerful and useful alloying elements in steel has been conclusively demonstrated by experiments conducted by Dr. H. W. Gillett, chief alloy chemist, Department of the Interior, at the Ithaca (N. Y.) field office of the bureau of mines. While the value of molybdenum as a steel alloy is only beginning to be appreciated and its commercial use is still relatively small, the bureau of mines considers that it is destined to become widely used. The United States, according to the bureau, has abundant supplies of molybdenum which should be available to replace or supplement other metals used as steel alloying elements which at present must be imported.

"The yearly claims for molybdenum as a specific against fatigue failure of steel, which alleged, directly or by influence, that molybdenum steels were vastly superior to other steels for uses to resist vibration, have not been substantiated in the over-enthusiastic form in which they were made," the bureau continues. "The experiments show that, with one exception, molybdenum steels, and other alloy steels containing nickel, chromium, vanadium or a combination of these elements, have equal qualities, and that no one alloy stands out above the other on this score.

Equals Any Other Steel.

"The exception is in favor of heat-treated molybdenum steels, for the presence of molybdenum makes the steel require a higher temperature in the drawing or tempering process after quenching, and this higher temperature causes fuller release of quenching stresses. The presence of quenching stresses tends to cause poorer performance under repeated vibration. This, however, is not a very great factor, and has a noticeable effect only in very hard steels, for example, those of spring temper. For ordinary structural uses no alloy steel is appreciably superior for use against vibration to any other when the steels are used in such sizes that they harden throughout on quenching. Molybdenum and certain combinations of nickel and chromium confer depth hardening properties on steel, and hence these have advantages for use in parts of large cross-section.

"Thus it is evident that, as regards endurance, molybdenum steels are the equals of any, and on some scores have slight advantages, but the advantages are slight instead of large. The choice of a composition of an alloy steel will therefore seldom depend on its fatigue properties.

"The endurance work of the bureau of mines has given results which in general fit in very well with the recent work of the engineering experiment station of the University of Illinois, and which indicate that the conclusions of the Illinois investigation may be extended to apply to a large range of alloy steels.

Dirty Steel Is Undesirable.

"But besides corroborating and extending the Illinois results, the work of the bureau has brought out a point which has not been covered completely by other investigators in this country or abroad, although it has been considered to some extent by most workers in this field. This point is the evil effect on endurance of nonmetallic inclusions. Dirty steel gives far less uniform results on endurance tests than cleaner steel, and dirty steel is certainly unreliable and unsafe where repeated vibration must be endured.

"These inclusions or other similar inhomogeneities in the metal, are probably the cause of many failures in service. From the relationship worked out by the Illinois investigators and others, and corroborated by the bureau of mines tests, the endurance properties of any really clean steel may be quite safely predicted. But when the steel is not clean it may either give the same results as a clean steel, or far poorer results, depending on whether the most severely stressed spot in a piece made from the dirty steel happens to be locally clean or locally dirty.

Endurance Being Tested.

"To obtain further information on the effect of inclusions, comparisons are being made of endurance tests on specimens cut both with and across the direction of rolling, since the latter, or transverse specimens, usually show the bad effect of inclusions and inhomogeneities most markedly. As soon as the endurance tests on the series of molybdenum, cerium and comparison steels are completed tests will be made on a series of nickel-silicon steels previously made by the bureau of mines for the navy, on which tests made by the navy on properties other than endurance are available."

JAY-WALKING DEER KILLED BY AUTOS IN NEW YORK

Preserves in Westchester County More Richly Stocked Than Many in England.

Wild deer are more numerous in Westchester county, New York, this season than at any time since the days of the Indians, Edward T. Townsend, game warden, reported. He said that in a stroll of a few hours away from the haunts of dogs and automobiles it was possible to count 20 or 30 deer. Westchester has no open season for deer.

"In the vicinity of Rye lake there are hundreds of deer," said Mr. Townsend. "Crossing a bridge near Rye, I counted eleven does and one buck. On a farm north of Katonah the farmer's wife told me the country was overrun with them. In fact, in Westchester we have preserves more richly stocked than many in England. The deer become so tame, in the absence of hunters, that they have actually entered Yonkers, New Rochelle and White Plains. If it were not for dogs and automobiles I am sure that they would cross to Manhattan.

"Aside from surreptitious hunters, the deer's chief enemies are dogs. The deer could easily outdistance the dogs in a chase, but the deer have a habit, before they plunge into water, of hesitating for a moment, which gives the dogs a chance to catch up. Many deer are run down by automobiles. They become dazed by the lights when surprised on unfrequented roads at night and are struck before they can flee. Fifty-nine deer were killed last year by dogs and automobiles."

WINS CAT DAMAGE SUIT

Shipper Awarded $59.25 for Death of Seven Felines.

Judge Calnen in an obiter dictum handed down in court at Hartford, Conn., in the case of Charles G. Garland of Portland, Me., against Frederick O. Grossbeck of Hartford, who sued to recover $59.25 for seven cats shipped from Maine, which died in transit declared that he possessed no technical knowledge of the traits of cats or their propensity of catching cold, though he declared he often yearned for such knowledge, especially during nocturnal concerts on the back fence at his home. Judge Calnen directed judgment for the plaintiff. In his decision he referred to the fact that no autopsy was held. Testimony showed that the cats were in good health when they left Portland. It was contended by the plaintiff that the cats were not properly protected in their manner of shipment and caught cold and died from pneumonia.

Appeal of the Circus.

The reason why the circus retains its hold over our imagination may perhaps be found in the fact that it makes its appeal, year after year, generation after generation, to one of the most basic emotions—the emotion of simple wonder. The interest evoked in Roman times by the life and death struggle of a lion with a tiger, or of a puny Christian with either, was in its essence the same as the refined, concentrated curiosity of which we are conscious today when we witness a dangerous carnivore performing some nicely contrived trick at the behest of an audacious trainer. For if this emotion of infantile wonder were not fundamental in us, if we had been truly emancipated from its thraldom, we would surely find small satisfaction in witnessing spectacles of such animal ductility.—Freeman.

Compulsory Bibles.

Scotch people ought to be very good, if goodness can be wrought by legislation. The first complete Bible was published in Scotland in 1579. An act of the Scotch parliament enacted that every gentleman, householder and others "Worth thrie hundreth merkis of yeirlie rent or abone," and every yeoman and burgess with five hundred pounds had to provide, under a penalty of ten pounds, "a bible and psalme buke in vulgare language in thair houssis for the better instruction of thame selfis and thair families in the knawledge of God." And to see that the provisions of the above act were carried into effect, the following year a searcher was appointed with power to visit the houses of those signified by the act, "and to require the sicht of their Psalme Bukis and Bybillis."

Superficial Thinkers.

A group of clubmen were talking, and the subject of dreams came up. Presently one said: "I remember reading of a dream so vivid that it was fatal to the dreamer. A man dreamed that he was living in the days of the French Revolution, and was one of the victims led to the guillotine. When his turn came and the big knife descended, the shock to his nervous system was so great that it killed him; he never woke up." This brought out various exclamations, such as "Most remarkable!" etc., but not one of the listeners discovered the flaw in his story. He waited a few minutes, and then said: "Well, boys, you're a smart lot, I must say, to swallow that yarn. How in the world could anyone know what that man had been dreaming about if he never woke up?"

Fourteen Glasses a Day the Limit.

One of the first temperance societies was organized in Germany in 1600. The members agreed not to drink more than fourteen glasses of wine a day. But people generally drank more in those days than they did later. In 1820 a temperance society was formed in New Jersey. Its members promised not to drink more than one-half pint of rum or whisky a day. In 1840 the Washingtonian society was organized in Baltimore, Md. Six of the leading drunkards of the city agreed to swear off forever and aye. In five years the pledge had been signed by 650,000 persons.

ALBANY COMMERCE CHAMBER SPECIAL RADIO PROGRAM

On Thursday night, December 20, a special program will be broadcasted by radio from the WGY wireless broadcasting station of the General Electric Company at Schenectady, N. Y. This program will be directed by the Music Committee of the Albany Chamber of Commerce. The program will start at 7:45 p. m. and will consist of orchestra selections, instrumental and vocal solos, Christmas carols sung by the Chamber of Commerce mixed quartet and a Chamber of Commerce inspirational address delivered by the secretary of this organization. The Albany Chamber of Commerce invites everybody to "attend" this wireless telephone Chamber of Commerce meeting by "tuning in," and the suggestion has been made by some Chambers of Commerce that they will have a meeting of their membership in some public place with a wireless receiving set and loud speaker, so that they may "attend" the meeting in a body.

PARTY DOG

"I am a little shaggy white dog and my name is Coo. It's a nice name for a dog, I think. It's rather unusual. Well, I am also called the party dog. I simply love parties.

"My master and my mistress give a great many parties. They love to have parties, and I must say I enjoy being a little host myself.

"When the guests come I sit up on my hind feet and I bark my most polite barks and I wish them all a good evening or a good afternoon. I wag my tail so hard and show them how welcome they are.

"Now I have never been taught to do tricks, but I have used my mind. I have done tricks almost by accident you know and then I've seen that my master and my mistress liked these little stunts and so I have kept on doing them.

"But it is when the refreshments come around that I like a party best of all.

"And my master and my mistress have the best of refreshments. Oh, yes, I'm not the only one who thinks so.

"Many has been the time that I have heard a guest say, 'Oh, don't you love to come here to a party? They always have such good things to eat.'

"And then another will say, 'I should say I do enjoy their parties. Truly they have the best food anywhere.' So it shows you that it is not only a little dog who cares for food. No, humans do too. And they like party food too.

"They Simply Cannot Resist."

"Well, when the refreshments come around I sit up on my hind legs and I blink my eyes. And I sit close to people who are eating. I don't make any noise about my begging. I try to be at my very best. If I made a noise and barked then people might be annoyed by me.

"I find they notice me just as well this way! In fact I find they notice me even more. That shows I use my head, doesn't it? Before a party comes along I am given a fine bath and I smell so sweet and clean, for my last soap-and-water scrub is with fine scented soap.

"Oh, I have a delicious scent for a party. Of course I can smell a party being prepared. I can smell the good things to eat which are being made beforehand.

"But when I say I have a delicious scent for a party I mean that I have a delicious scent upon me in honor of the party and of the guests.

"The gold and black kittens are always dressed up in their best for the party, but they're not sociable. They're proud. I don't pay any attention to them and they don't pay any attention to me. We keep good friends in this way!

"Truly they are gold and black. They are very magnificently handsome. They have yellow gold eyes and black fur, and they love to eat flowers. Yes, they nibble at leaves and plants and flowers. They are not allowed in all the rooms. But they usually stay in my master's study, which has a fine fireplace in it, but in which he is careful not to keep flowers.

"Curious cats to have such queer ways, aren't they? People admire their looks, but they don't make friends with the cats very much either.

"Now they say that when I sit up on my hind legs when the people are eating their refreshments and when I blink my eyes that I give hints which they simply cannot resist.

"And I am very glad that they don't resist my hints. I would not like it if they were able to turn their backs, so to speak, upon my hints! Oh, it is such fun to sit up and be admired and it is such fun to be loved and to be a little assistant host at a party. Then, you know, I don't have any fuss or bother. I don't have to help make sandwiches and I don't have to turn the handle of the ice cream freezer. I have all the fun and none of the hard work. Truly I am a lucky dog. A luckier dog, I am sure, never lived.

"Bow-wow-bow-wow, I'm sure that is the truth!"

CHRISTMAS GOOD THINGS

If there has been put up jams, jellies, canned vegetables and relishes, there is no need to worry about Christmas giving, for there are many friends in the circle of our acquaintance who would be delighted with such home-prepared gifts.

Those who live in the country or on farms, where everything good can be grown, are able to surprise the city friend or relative with a really worthwhile holiday basket. A big golden pumpkin, hollowed out in the form of a bowl or basket, leaving the slice taken from the top, with the stem for a handle, for a cover. Scoop out the seeds and put into this pumpkin basket a glass of jelly or two, a small jar of cream, a roll of sausage, a plump, dressed chicken, a pat of fresh farm butter, a few fresh eggs, and fill in the chinks with hickory nuts, hazel nuts, or chestnuts, depending upon where you live; cover with the lid and present your Christmas pumpkin. The pumpkin will delight the family with a few pumpkin pies.

A bit of handwork which cost little for the material may be worked on at odd moments, and one will never miss the time so spent.

A suggestion to the farm wife when she makes sausage for the winter—prepare a few for Christmas as follows: Save nice clean corn husks, roll the sausage into the form of an ear of corn, then wrap with corn husks and tie. Smoke with the hams, keep in a cool place and they will be good all winter. The corn husks give a good flavor to the sausage.

English Plum Pudding.—Scald two and one-half cupfuls of bread crumbs with one cupful of milk. Add one-half pound of finely-chopped suet, one-half cupful each of sugar and maple sirup, four eggs, well-beaten; one-half pound each of currants, raisins and citron; dredge with three tablespoonfuls of flour; add two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-third of a cupful of canned fruit juice. Turn into a buttered mold and steam twelve hours for two days. Reheat when serving.

FORD PRODUCING HALF OF ALL CARS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Dettroit, Mich., Dec. 18.—Approximately forty-nine per cent of the passenger cars and trucks produced in the United States during the first ten months of 1923 were Fords.

This is shown by a comparison of the automobile production figures given out by the U. S. department of commerce and those of the Ford Motor Company here.

The department's figures on cars and trucks, the latter including fire apparatus and street sweepers, shows a total of 3,396,638 for the first ten months.

Ford production figures for the same period, which include as those of other companies, cars and trucks made here for assembly in foreign countries, totals 1,639,374. This total, however, does not include the production of the plant at Manchester, England, which manufactures practically all of its parts and which produced 27,606 cars and trucks during the first ten months, nor does it include the ten-month output of 69,452 cars and trucks by the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd.

A comparison of the truck production figures shows that 62 per cent were Fords. The total number of trucks turned out during the ten months from January 1 to November 1 was 320,255 with Ford truck production for the same time total 200,996.

PIE FOR THE FAIR

By JANE GORDON

(©, 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

RICHARD WARREN was the ideal of his mother, incidentally of his sister, and after he came home from college, of every young woman in his home town.

The mother really was excusable because Richard was a devoted, unselfish son; Linda, too, had reason to admire her generous, considerate brother.

The village young women may have been moved by his fine face and courteous manner. But to outsiders the repetition of her son's name in praise made of Mrs. Warren an oftimes boresome companion.

If Rhoda May, from the city, thought this, she was polite enough to conceal the fact in undivided attention to the elder woman's conversation. It was "Richard likes this" or "Richard likes that"—and one indisputable fact seemed to be Richard's aversion to the citified young woman and her (supposed) frivolous ways.

Mrs. Warren had long ago settled upon Myrtle Saunders as her son's future wife. Myrtle had grown up in the village and was well versed in household art, Mrs. Warren so often prated. Also, Richard's mother had a future vision of the stolid Myrtle, installed in a home, as her own comfort and support.

It was altogether likely, from present signs, that Linda would not remain unmarried to be her mother's stay in old age.

Myrtle already could be counted upon to come over in times of illness and assist in the family needs—her only longed-for reward a smile of appreciation from the young man whom she secretly and meekly adored.

Miss Rhoda May had come as guest to the Warren home under unexpected circumstances

"Richard," the mother assured her, "will marry a home woman—one skilled in ways of cooking and baking, and free from nonsensical, useless graces. Richard must have good cakes; Richard is very particular about his pie."

"Which reminds me," put in Linda, "I have to have a perfect pie for our high school exhibit. And, mommie, Richard has been selected to award the prizes. Because he attended Hollworth, I suppose. Poor Dick; he's to be official taster."

Mrs Warren sat up interested. "I must call up Myrtle, "she said; "if ever a girl could make a delicious pie it's Myrtle. And being a teacher, connected with the school—" Mrs. Warren was on her way to the telephone.

Linda turned in distress to her friend. "Gosh!" remarked Linda, "isn't it too much? I'd like to send in a pie; not keen for the glory, but I need that five dollars for a special purpose And I'm no good at cooking; mean to learn later."

Mrs. Warren came cheerfully from the telephone "Myrtle intends to exhibit," she said; "which reminds me, I promised Richard an apple pie for dinner tonight. I must make it before I go to the missionary meeting."

Linda laughed wickedly. "If," she said in dramatic whisper, "you should hear of the loss of an apple pie from the pantry, Rhoda, be sure the cat has knocked it out the pantry window."

"Linda!" cried Rhoda May, "you wouldn't really steal your mother's pie to exhibit as your own."

The fair was bound to be a success; both scholars and teachers had worked toward that end. "The cooking exhibit," as the Hylan Press expressed it, "was most commendable."

Richard Warren, prize namer, and lately of Hollworth college, pronounced the apple pie submitted by his sister Linda as the perfect one of the many very good pies placed for exhibition. He was not aware of his sister's ownership of the pie until later, when numbers were exchanged for names. It may be remarked—which the Press did not know—that Richard was vastly astonished by this fact.

"It even surpassed mother's choicest pies," he told Linda proudly at the dinner table that evening. "Why, the crust would literally melt in your mouth—and oh, those sweetened apples haunt me still."

Linda looked at the surprised faces of her family; she grinned. "I took mother's pie from the pantry, where she placed it before she went to the missionary meeting."

Mrs. Warren blinked, then stared. "I baked no pie," she said. "I found I would not have time."

"Well, then how—" began Linda; she saw Rhoda May frantically endeavoring to attract her attention. "You made it!" cried Linda, delighted with her discovery.

Richard turned slowly to look into the blue eyes of his mother's guest. "You," he said softly. "My wonder girl! Oh, not because of the pie," he hastily informed his mother. "Rhoda has been my wonder girl from almost the moment I saw her. She insisted that we must not announce our engagement until we should be quite sure of our love. Well, I'm sure enough to give you an advance chance to wish your future daughter-in-law happiness, mother."

Lines of disappointment deepened in Mrs. Warren's face. Rhoda waited, sweetly, rosily, diffident. Linda broke the tension:

"Your future daughter-in-law is a prize-winner, every way you take her, mother," she said. Which, later, Mrs. Warren found to be happily true.

MILTON.

Milton, Dec 17.—John Hasbrook of Marlborough has started a milk route in this village, which is a great convenience to the people and something which has been needed here for some time, as it is at times a very difficult matter to get milk here.

Corporal J. F. Williams of West Point, and a former resident here, was a visitor at the home of his aunt, Mrs. L. S. Patten, last week.

Isaac Holden has accepted a position in the Highland grape juice factory.

Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Vail and family are visiting at Ridgewood, N. J.

Capt. Gifford Hallock has had electric lights installed in his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Miller and Christopher Miller of Orangeburgh, N. J., visited in town last week.

The many friends here of Mrs. Elizabeth Keates were greatly saddened to hear of her death, which occurred at her home at Pasadena, California, last week. Mrs. Keates was the wife of the Rev. Harry R. Keates, a former pastor of the Friends' Church. Besides her husband she is survived by twelve children, Mrs. Edward Young of Milton, William of New York city, Mrs. J. F. Gillingham of Auburn, N. Y. Marion C. of Pasadena, Ellen C. of Hollydaysburgh, Pa., Mrs Harold J. Sprague of Ames, Iowa, Mrs. A. W. Smith of Pasadena, Harry S. of Richmond, Stonewell of Chicago and Frank F. Keates of Des Moines, Ia. Mrs. Edward Young and her brothers, father and sisters have the heartfelt sympathy of this community in their sad bereavement.

The annual business meeting of the Ladies' Needlecraft Society was held last Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs C. M. Woolsey and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. G. W. Hallock; vice president, Mrs. Philip A. Lyons; second vice president, Mrs. Alice Crowell; secretary, Mrs. William R. Ordway; treasurer, Miss Ida Florence Woolsey. The annual Christmas supper of the Presbyterian Sunday school was arranged for at this meeting and Mrs. A. C. Jenkins was appointed chairman of the refreshment committee, Miss Katherine Eckert, chairman of the entertainment committee and Miss Florence chairman of the decoration committees. The supper will be served in the church parlor on the evening of December 29 from 6 to 8 o'clock

James and Edith Hirschfield of Bremen, Germany, arrived here last week and will spend the winter at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Edith Fowler, on Church street

Miss Marcia Newman of Brooklyn and a former resident of Milton, died at her home last week. Miss Newman was the youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Newman, Jr. She is survived by two sisters and a brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morehead are spending the winter months at Woodbury Forest, Virginia.

Miss Genevieve Short of New York city has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. D. M. Warren.

The food and novelty sale held last Saturday afternoon by the ladies of All Saints' Church was a financial success. There was a large attendance and the good home made food found quick buyers. Quite a large quantity of home made bread, cake and pies, buns, rolls, etc., were quickly sold and greatly enjoyed when eaten.

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock, Dec 17.—The Sunday school of the Reformed Church are rehearsing for Christmas exercises to be held on Sunday evening, December 23. A fine program has been arranged. The choir will render special music with violin accompaniment. There will also be a Christmas tree with gifts for the children. A pleasant evening is promised all who attend.

CHRISTMAS IN AIR AT Y. W. C. A.

The spirit of giving is very much in the air at the Y. W. C. A., and both the Christmas parties will be in the nature of service parties.

On Thursday afternoon of this week, the grade school girl reserve clubs will combine in having their party. Each girl will bring some article of food which she will place at the foot of the prettily decorated tree, and these supplies will be handed over to the Salvation Army, to be distributed where they are most needed. The girls will then enjoy a program of games and the singing of Christmas carols.

The older girls of the association are having their party on Friday evening and have invited as their guests about thirty small children whose parents are not in a position to make their Christmas a very merry one this year. Santa Claus will be present to distribute the little gifts that the girls are providing and it promises to be a very delightful affair both for the "kiddies" and the older girls as well. Cars will return the children at an early hour and then the association is to have a delightful ceremonial with Miss Anna Baylor taking the part of the Spirit of Christmas.

The tree, the decorations and all gifts are being donated by association members, and any who wish to share in this giving are asked to 'phone the Y. W. C. A. before Wednesday evening.

KRIPPLEBUSH.

Kripplebush, Dec. 17.—The Jr. O. U. A. M. Lodge will have a banquet at their hall Friday evening, December 21. All members and their families are invited to come and have a good time.

A 20% reduction allowed on all purchases until Christmas.

When Chicago Was Settled.

The site of Chicago was discovered in 1673, but the first house was not built until 1779, by Jean Baptiste Point de Saible. In 1796 he sold his claim to Le Mai, a French fur trader who in turn sold to John Kinzie, the first white man to make his home there. In 1803 Fort Dearborn was erected on the south bank of the river.

Why Work Wins.

Henry Ford hit the nail squarely on the head in the following passage, which explains why work wins:

"Selling is telling. Shoot straight, hit hard, and everlastingly hammer your story home and the sales will come.

"There isn't any luck about it. work is the thing; good, earnest, honest, hard work—work in the right direction—work with brains—but everlastingly, persistently, continuously—work.

"If it requires no brains, no energy, no work, there would be no glory in achievement.

"Reinforce yourself with steel-hooped, copper-riveted, well directed energy, and intelligence, and knowing what you want to do, do it.

"Work wins—you can't beat it."

Cantilever Shoe for Men & Women

Just Right for Your Feet

HOW wonderful it is to go through a day of walking and shopping without feeling fatigue. Cantilever wearers know the secret.

Your feet, in order to carry you through the day, must be correctly shod. The Cantilever Shoe has a flexible arch that bends with your foot, permitting free circulation and toning up the muscles and ligaments at every step. There is natural support for the arch so essential for real foot comfort.

The soft skins that go into the Cantilever Shoe are chosen because they are comfortable and good to look at. Neatly rounded toes and styles with a character all their own have made Cantilever Shoes very popular. We invite you to come into our store and look at these shoes.

The Many Reasons Why Luckey, Platt Company's Is the Most Convenient Place to Do Your Christmas Shopping

STORE HOURS
From December 17th to 22nd, inclusive, 8:30 A. M. to 9:00 P. M. December 24th, Christmas Eve, store closes at 6:00 P. M.

SANTA CLAUS AT LUCKEY'S
Every day from now until Christmas, Santa Claus will appear at Luckey, Platt & Company's store between 4 and 5 p. m. He will be glad to meet all the kiddies.

SHOP BY MAIL
Many times our patrons have been very busy around Christmas time which has prevented them from doing all of their Christmas shopping.

"Miss Lucy Luckey" our personal shopper will be very glad to do your shopping for you if you are unable to come to the store. Just write her or telephone what you want, and she will shop for you as conscientiously as though she were doing it for herself.

TO HELP THE MEN DO THEIR CHRISTMAS BUYING
Very often a man has to buy for the women folks of his home but he does not know how to go about it. When he comes in our store, if he will tell the floormen or come to the Third Floor and ask for Miss Lucy Luckey, we will be very glad to send a shopper with him through the store to assist in his Christmas buying.

BUYING IN COMFORT
Sometimes you may come down to the store very warmly dressed and find it uncomfortable to shop around the store.

Our Checking Department, Street floor, will be very glad to take care of your wraps, baggage or packages for you free of charge.

CASHING CHRISTMAS CLUB CHECKS
Those who have received Christmas Club Checks from the bank, will be glad to know that we will cash them for you, or take them in payment for purchases made in the store.

SHOPPING BY TRANSFER
If you have several purchases to make, ask for a Tranfer Slip when you make your first purchase. You do not have to pay for your purchases at the counter, but you may shop from one department to another, having your purchases recorded as you go along. You do not even have to carry your purchases. When you have completed your buying, go to the Transfer Desk, pay for your purchases all at one time and receive them all or give delivery instructions and they will be sent.

TELEPHONES
We have telephones in the store specially for our customers to use for local calls. Long distance and more private conversations can be made in the telephone booth on the Second Floor.

LOST AND FOUND
During the Christmas season, many things are lost and found. All of these articles are brought to our Lost and Found Desk, Third Floor. If you lose or find anything, we would appreciate it if you would come to this central station and report it.

THE HOUSEHOLD CLUB
Large articles like Furniture, Rugs and such Household furnishings may be purchased on the Household Club Plan. You simply apply for membership, make your purchase, give an initial payment and pay for the purchase later on.

HOLDING GOODS FOR YOUR DELIVERY ORDER
Purchases made now, whether in full or part, will be held in the store subject to your delivery order. If you see something that you would like to have, but do not car to pay in full now, you may place a small deposit on it and we will hold until you want them.

LATEST PHONOGRAPH RECORDS ON THE STREET FLOOR
Near the elevators in the rear of the store, we have placed two Audaks which are machines for giving private demonstrations of phonograph records. Just tell the young lady that you would like to hear the latest records, sit down in comfort at the Audak desk and hear all the latest records.

CHRISTMAS CANDIES
Christmas candies are here in a large variety. Boxed goods from 1 pound to 5 pound boxes. All kinds of hard candies and such candies as one would select for tree cornucopias and your tree decorations.

IN THE GROCERY DEPARTMENT
We sell nuts, fruits and groceries that are particularly wanted around Christmas time.

A BIGGER AND BETTER TOYLAND FOR THE KIDDIES
Many square feet more of floor space gives broader aisles and a larger variety of toys, games and dolls.
Take rear elevator to Toyland this year.

TELEPHONE SERVICE
We have five in-coming trunk lines with 55 stations. Every department has a telephone or one adjacent so that you may talk directly with the department if you wish.

SPECIAL TELEPHONE ORDER DEPARTMENT
We have a special order department. If you wish to give an order, simply say "Order Department" and the clerk will take your order, fill it and see that it is delivered.

MAH JONGG
During this week, we are giving free of charge, Mah Jongg lessons between 3 and 5 p. m. Mr. Cheng-Chin-Hsuing of Newport and Narragansett is the instructor. You may make arrangements for classes in the Stationery Department.

EXTRA EMPLOYES TO SERVE YOU
From now until Christmas, we have over 450 co-workers who are over ready to serve you and make your shopping in this store a pleasure. Such a force means little waiting and convenient shopping.

WRAPPING UP CHRISTMAS GIFTS
We have a special department in which we sell Seals, Cards, Twine, Holiday Wrapping Paper and all needs for making Christmas gifts most presentable.

When you purchase your gifts in this store, we will wrap them for you, and should you wish, parcel post and insure them for you. This department is on the Street Floor near the Rear Elevators.

DEMONSTRATIONS DURING THE HOLIDAY SEASON
We are demonstrating in the Basement, Maxwell House Coffee, Heinz Products and N. B. C. Crackers. We would be glad to have you come and sample them.

DELIVERY
Our Delivery Department maintains five cars with efficient men in charge. Every possible measure will be taken to deliver your Christmas purchases on time.

35 SHOPS IN ONE
No need to go from store to store when you do your Christmas shopping in Poughkeepsie. Luckey, Platt & Company's store is composed of 35 shops with almost every need for men, women and children. The store is full of Christmas suggestions for gifts and there are five sales floors all connected by four large smooth-running elevators. It is possible to do all your Christmas shopping in this one big store.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS
Our Dennison Department has all sorts of decorations for trimming the Christmas home, also for the making of Christmas novelties for Christmas parties. The Dennison Department is on the Street Floor.

MERCHANDISE CERTIFICATES
Merchandise certificates may be purchased from the Floormen or at the office on the Third Floor. These are a very popular and convenient form of gift-giving for those who do not know what to select. You pay whatever you choose for these certificates and they are worth their face value to the one who receives them. They are good-looking and make excellent gifts.

EARLY SHOPPING
From 8:30 a. m. until around ten o'clock, there are fewer people in the store than at any other time during the day. This makes it a very convenient time for people to do their Christmas shopping. No rush, no waits and displays easy to see.

Do your Christmas shopping in the morning.

SIT DOWN AND REST AWHILE
On the Third Floor, we have a large commodious rest room. We have arranged this temporarily until after the holidays. You are very welcome to come in and rest, eat your lunch there or enjoy any of the privileges there for you. Take elevators to the Third Floor.

MORE ROOM THIS YEAR FOR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING
There are thousands of square feet of added floor space making broader aisles and convenient displays. When the store is finished, there will be over 180,000 square feet of floor space.

BIG DOINGS ON K. OF C. PROGRAM

At the regular meeting of Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, Monday evening, at its rooms, Broadway and Andrew street, a large crowd was in attendance. The turkey contest, which attracted a large number of the local knights, was awarded to Joseph Brown.

The program of events that the council was enjoy during the remainer of the month and beginning the new year, was announced by Grand Knight John C. Mahoney. On December 31, at the K. of C. Home, the annual watch night party will be held. As in former years there will be entertainment, dancing and refreshments. This year the local council is compelled to limit the invitations to knights and their families, due to the large number of members. This New Year's eve party is always one of the banner events of the year.

On January 7, at the council rooms, the first degree will be conferred upon a large class of candidates, by a team from Newburgh Council.

On January 21, a corned beef and cabbage supper will be served the members in the council rooms. This supper is expected to draw out every member.

On February 4, at the council rooms, the second degree will be conferred upon a class of candidates.

Plans were initiated Monday evening for a pinochle tournament to be held among the members. Theodore Martinelli, John Finn, William Golden and John Conroy will conduct the tournament. Members desiring to enter should leave their names with the custodian or with the above committee.

The pool tournament is going big, attracting large audiences at the matches. There has been a number of eliminations recently, which narrows down the list of eligibles. Some great contests are expected among the survivors.

Following are the results of games played over the week end:

	Rated	Made	H. Run
Quigley	100	100	14
Koenig	100	61	14
Brophy	100	64	13
Ketterer	100	100	14
James Bryne, Jr.	80	57	7
J. Higley	80	57	7
E. Burns	85	85	13
C. Enright	85	62	9

The game scheduled between N. Reis and Harry Howard was forfeited to Reis.

Tonight Joseph Leotta, rated 85, will meet James Carro, 80.

ARREST A NEGRO UPON CHARGE OF LARCENY

Upon receiving word from Sergeant Cunningham of the state police, Detective Adams, Sergeant Wiltsie and Officer Littleton, in Newburgh, arrested John Jones, 35, married, colored, a laborer, on a charge of larceny. It is alleged the negro stole a suit of clothing from a store in Ulster Landing. Jones was a passenger on the West Shore train arriving in Newburgh on Saturday afternoon at 5:08.

NEGLECT SCORING TO PRESERVE DEFENSIVE

Middletown High School basketball team defeated Port Jervis, 9-8, in an extra period game in Middletown on Saturday. The regular period of play found both teams tied, 7-7. The game was featured by the splendid five-man defense of both teams. Both teams carried the defense to extremes, for the players of both sides were reluctant to leave their own goal for any aggressive play. This was the first Duso League game for either team.

Schoolmasters' Club Meets.

The Schoolmasters' Club of Kingston held its last 1923 meeting at the Advance Restaurant Tuesday evening, with about 25 present. A brief business session was held and it was decided to give the club's meetings more publicity. Dr. R. H. D. Boerker, of the high school faculty, chairman of the program committee, introduced as the speaker of the evening Judge A. T. Clearwater, who delivered an address on "The Early History of Kingston" in which he paid high tribute to the city's educational system.

We Dare Say.

He was an argumentative local councillor, and was crushing an opponent's case. "Gentlemen," he said, "you may say, with Councillor Smith, that this is a case of six of one and half a dozen of the other. But I say, No"—pause for emphasis—"No; it is nothing of the sort. It is exactly the contrary."

Until Christmas, every article of wearing apparel in our store sold at a reduction of 20%. All sales strictly cash. All alterations free of charge. No goods on approval.

CATSKILL HISTORY AS REVISED IN N. Y. HERALD

In the New York Herald, has been appearing, some articles in regard to the Old Catskill Mountain Railroad. In the issue of December 8th, R. V. W. of Cook's Falls stated the railroad had been sold to the Canfield Supply Company, of this city. In the Herald of Sunday, December 16, the following letter of correction was published:

To the New York Herald:

In the New York Herald of December 8, "R. V. W." of Cook's Falls tries to correct "Christian Charlie" of Patchogue in regard to the history of the Otis Elevator Railway of Catskill.

He stated it was sold to the Canfield Supply Company of Kingston in 1920. We would like to correct his error.

The Canfield Supply Company of Kingston are wholesale dealers in plumbing, heating, mill, electrical supplies and farm machinery, but they never handle or purchase junk.

"R. V. W." may have gotten his impression from the fact that the Canfield Supply Company are such heavy shippers of freight over the Catskill Mountain railroads that they have been tempted at times to purchase a railroad to carry their heavy freight. But the railroad in question was sold to one of the Kingston junk companies.

Kingston, December 15.

VANITY! VANITY, ALL IS VANITY!

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Whether vanity is a growing evil or whether it is because there are so many charming novelties for the frivolously inclined, is hard to say, but surely counters have never before had a more bewildering burden of vanity cases than are displayed these days before Christmas. From brightly decorated kid bags which hold a powder puff and which are supposed to hide their light under a bushel, so to speak, to the stunning enamel and gold cases which are suspended from the wrist by a ribbon with metal or jeweled slides, there is a wide difference of opinion as well as price.

There are, in between these extremes, dainty compact cases of various types and steel beaded bags such as the one illustrated, made of soft suede or velvet and suspended from a wristlet studded with rhinestones, which serves a double purpose, for it also holds in place a handkerchief which is in color and spirit quite as frivolous as the vanity case itself.

Eccentric shapes are chosen and bags which bear a resemblance to sectional hat brims are to be seen everywhere.

The woman who likes to make personal gifts will have little difficulty in finding novelties at the veiling counters. Since softening the cloche with a veil which casts a becoming shadow over the eyes is getting to be habitual among smart women, the gift of a veil is one to be considered. There are smartly patterned circular and oblong veils in black, blonde or tortoise shell shades. In fact, novelty dominates the veiling situation as it does everything else worn these days.

Among the newer types shown are semi-circular veils of an almost invisible light filet mesh with a floral border. An oblong veil with a narrow border of silver is another novelty. Another has a taupe ground ornamented with self-colored and gray chenille dots. A square block mesh has a heavy border of brown chenille dots which in turn shows diamond shaped figures of the dots in a light shade of tan.

The woman who is going to Palm Beach will appreciate a Shetland sports veil with high colored embroidered border, or a Shetland veil with a Batik edge in the high shades.

SAYS RECIPROCITY IS NEEDED IN VALLEY AFFAIRS

The Newburgh News says:

From what can be learned, the only thing that transpired at the recent meeting of the Hudson Valley Federated Chambers of Commerce of any interest to this section, aside from the election of directors, was the making of a suggestion by President Olcott of the Day Line that a watch be kept on plans for the state highway bridge off Poughkeepsie. Navigation is hampered enough by the railroad bridge without running the risk of new trouble from the road structure. The federated meeting appears to have been planned chiefly for purpose of grinding Albany's axes. If this sort of thing keeps on central and lower Hudson Chambers will begin to ask whether the continuance of the federation is worth while. If the time ever comes when Albany displays any interest in problems and projects down this way, it will find a very cordial spirit of reciprocity by our towns toward upriver projects. Meanwhile the federation officials and directors face the problem of mapping out objectives which our towns will support, not by resolutions alone but earnest work.

Y. M. C. A. AUXILIARY PLANS NEW YEAR'S RECEPTION

The regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary held last week at the association rooms was well attended. The devotional exercises were in charge of Mrs. J. Grove Brown and were appropriate to the Christmas season. Favorable and interesting reports were given by all the committees. Plans were entered into for the New Year's reception, Mrs. E. O. Allen being chairman of refreshments and Mrs. Safford chairman of the program.

Mr. Hall addressed the meeting telling of the work in the boys' department and his full report showed excellent accomplishments in that department. The auxiliary decided to give a contribution toward the refurnishing of the boys' room and it was also voted to buy a used piano for the ladies' room. Mrs. Coe, Mrs. Eltinge, Mrs. W. N. Fessenden and Mrs. W. R. Anderson were appointed a committee with power, to look after the securing of such piano. Those present were enjoyably entertained by Miss Marjorie Green who sang "Saxon," by Godard, and as an encore, "Reverie," by Schuet. Refreshments were then served and a social time enjoyed.

HOLLAND LAND OF PLUMP CHILDREN

Dutch Government Demands They Be in Bed by 9 O'Clock.

Dutch boys and girls are in bed by 9 o'clock, at least in The Hague. A paternal government sees to it that they have to go to bed. There is nothing else for them to do.

The other night, says a writer, we dined at one of the largest restaurants in The Hague. Not a boy or girl was to be seen. No one was being treated by auntie or uncle, or dining with father and mother, just for once!

We went to see the film of "Monna Vanna," harmless enough surely, and preceded by one of those rollicking pictures in which people fall off roofs into tubs of water or get buckets of paint inverted on their heads. I missed the shrill shrieks of delighted children, hearing instead only bass guffaws. The notice confronted me as I went out:

"Children under eighteen not admitted."

In fact, children less than eighteen can go nowhere in the evening in The Hague. No theater will admit them; the restaurants and picture houses are closed to them, and very soon dancing will be forbidden to them.

Certainly the Dutch boys and girls look wonderfully healthy and happy. Going to bed early agrees with them, if their looks are any criterion. I can scarcely believe that there exists a thin Dutch child.

How, indeed, can they be thin when they drink so much milk?

School children begin the day with about a pint of new milk, warm in winter, cold in summer. With it they eat five or six slices of bread and butter. That keeps them going until they come home from school at 12 o'clock, when another pint of milk has to be drunk and five or six more slices of bread and butter eaten.

The big meal of the day, dinner, is eaten at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when school is over. After the home lessons are finished the school child drinks another huge glass of milk before going to bed.

"What happens if the children don't like milk?" I asked the mother of a large family, who was dispensing breakfast to her boys and girls.

I saw the children exchange glances.

"They have to like it," replied the mother, pouring out a glassful calmly, as she spoke.—London Mail.

Clover Seed Tested.

Tests with imported red clover seed carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington show that not all varieties are suited for growth in this country. In almost every test made with Italian seed there were signs of more or less winter killing or disease injury. German and Bohemian strains also showed considerable disease injury. In the northern states the French and Chilean seed beds showed some winter killing, but at other places seemed to suffer little. Inasmuch as estimates of the probable red clover crop in this country indicate that we will import a large amount of our seed for 1924, the bureau of plant industry advises importers and farmers to procure such strains as are known to give satisfactory results under conditions in this country.

Appreciation.

The artist was proud of his latest canvas; it was a futuristic painting, supposed to represent a Dutch landscape. He made arrangements to exhibit it in the art museum, and beneath it hung a printed notice bearing the words: "Do not touch with cane or umbrella." When he went back to secure the return of his painting, he found that an appreciative boy had added to the sign the following postscript: "Take an ax."—Everybody's Magazine.

WORLD WIDE SEARCH FOR $7,000,000 SWINDLER

Mrs. Leo Koretz, Mrs. Mary Koretz, Leo Koretz and Koretz home.

A world-wide search is being conducted for Leo Koretz, Chicago "financier," who has disappeared, after securing $7,000,000 in selling stock in a South American venture which did not exist. He deserted his wife and three children. Among his victims was his own mother, Mrs Mary Koretz, whom he swindled out of her fortune. Before he fled he established a trust fund of $400,000 for her, however. She refused to accept it and turned it over to the creditors.

FORMER CHAMPION GIRL DANCER SERIOUSLY STABBED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 18.—Using a large clasp knife as a weapon, an unidentified white man early today slashed the throat of Miss Eleanor Spruell Taylor, one-time world's champion marathon dancer, and then escaped before the girl could summon assistance.

Miss Taylor was returning from a dance, she told police, when a man seized her, crying "I've been trying to get you for six years and now I've got you" and then plunged the knife into her throat.

She lay desperately wounded today at a hospital here.

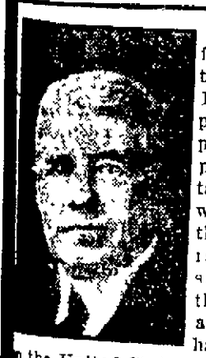
THE REPUBLICAN TARIFF

By JOHN T. ADAMS,

Chairman of the Republican National Committee



One of the fundamentals of the Republican party is the policy of a protective tariff The wisdom of that policy is demonstrated by the effect its application has had upon the United States.

During 60 years of the Republican party's existence the United States has been under a protective tariff with a few exceptions of very brief duration. During this period has occurred the industrial and agricultural development of this country

The typical attitude of the Democratic party upon the tariff was expressed in its platform of 1892, in which it "denounced Republican protection as a fraud," and promised the repeal of the McKinley tariff "as one of the beneficent results that will follow the action of the people in entrusting power to the Democratic party"

The American people believed the Democratic party's tariff claims and gave it control of the government The McKinley tariff was repealed. The result was a panic and hard times.

The next free trade tariff under which the country suffered was the Underwood act of 1913 When it was enacted the United States was prosperous, industries active and wage earners employed at good wages Inside of 18 months there were 3,000,000 idle wage earners, railroad yards were congested with idle freight cars, more business failures occurred than ever before in the history of the country and soup houses were established

The country was saved from an even worse effect by reason of the artificial stimulus to business brought about by the European war After the war the Underwood tariff again operated to the injury of industry When the Republican party came into power March 4, 1921 there were more industrial wage earners walking the streets in idleness than at any previous time in the history of the United States.

One of the first acts of the Republican Congress was to enact an emergency tariff which was supplemented later by a permanent tariff This tariff has been in effect only a year. The benefits are known to all people.

Never before have our industries been running so steadily, turning out such quantity of products, employing so many men and paying so high wages as during the last 12 months under the Fordney-McCumber tariff. Never before in peace times have our exports been so large. As a revenue producer, the Fordney-McCumber act excels any tariff law in the history of the United States.

As President Coolidge, in his recent message to Congress, said, touching upon the tariff: "The present law has accomplished its two main objects It has secured an abundant revenue and been productive of an abounding prosperity"

WOMAN'S PARTY ORGANIZER HERE

To Hold Meetings in the Interest of Laws to Bring About Equal Rights in All Things.

Miss Fred Lee Woodson of Washington, D. C, arrived in Kingston today in the interest of the New York Branch of the National Woman's Party. Miss Woodson states the Woman's Party is an international organization, non-partisan and non-political, working for the removal of all forms of subjection of women and for the logical fulfillment of the suffrage amendment

Meetings will be held locally to discuss the federal equal rights amendment reading "Men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction," which has been introduced in both houses of congress by Senator Curtis and by Representative Anthony, a nephew of Miss Susan B Anthony, one of the equal rights pioneers

"Last year in New York" said Miss Woodson, "the Woman's Party was instrumental in securing the passage of four bills giving women equal inheritance rights and placing father and mother upon an equal plane in the conflict for custody of a minor child where the parents are living apart without divorce We are working in New York to obtain complete legal equality of women, giving to married women equal property rights equal citizenship rights, equal right to the ownership of her services, giving to the mother equal rights in the earnings and services of the minor child ond in the guardianship of its estate giving to all women equal rights to serve on juries equal rights in administration of estates and equal opportunities in schools professions, industries we are working to eradicate the double standard of morals from the text of the law by making men equally punishable for sex offences and making the father of a child born out of wedlock have the same responsibility which the law now places upon the mother"

Mrs Robert Clowe of Hudson is chairman of this congressional district, and Mrs Clarence M Smith, 258 Riverside Drive New York city is state chairman State headquarters for the organization are maintained at 698 Lexington avenue, New York city.

Agriculture Department Fashion Note.

Most useful and attractive coats and sleeveless jumpers, with hats to match, can be made from veal skins, which can be tanned without the hair at a reasonably low cost, an Agriculture Department Bulletin says. Many useful and marketable articles are also made from lamb, sheep and goat skins A club woman in northwest Oklahoma recently made herself a very beautiful horsehide coat which she believed would have cost at least $50 if she had bought it ready made She spent only $9 for tanning and a small additional amount for the sateen lining.

Why Worry?

Sarah had just resigned her position to get married and when her mistress learned that she was shortly to go to Canada and make her home there, she asked:

"But, Sarah aren't you rather nervous about going into a strange country like that?"

"No, madam, answered the girl. "That's my husband's lookout. I belong to him, and if anything happens to me it'll be his loss and not mine"

Japanese Now Scorn Finery.

The Yorodzu says the earthquake and fire have with one stroke made a decided change in the manners of the people of Tokyo women in finery, for instance, being looked at askance with suspicious eyes The newspaper says a movement has been started to discard silks in favor of cotton goods, but it reminds the public that silk is a national product, while cotton goods are largely imported

MACHINE TO DRESS CODFISH

Iron Splitter Does the Work of Seventy-Five Men in the Grand Banks.

Out on the foggy grand banks the most arduous task of the cod fisherman is "dressing down" Every one dreads it, for it means working regardless of hours until the job is done. If the catch has been heavy midnight, or even the dawn following, sees the entire crew hard at it by the light of flares. No one, not even the cook, commonly known while afloat as "the doctor," may have any respite, says the Scientific American The deck is slippery with parts of the thousands of cod that have been slid from the knife of the slitters into the hold. Cut fingers are of no avail as an excuse for laying off

Power has taken a lot of the meanness out of life at sea and the same little gasoline engine that hoists the sails and weighs the anchor will now have more to do—and the crew less. The "iron splitter" does the work of 60 to 75 men who now wield sharp knives on the grand banks off Newfoundland, up along the Labrador, as well as in the localities frequented by fishermen from France, England and Scandinavia.

Every second the new machine takes a fresh codfish and as often it turns out a dressed fish. It performs all the usual operations of splitting, removing the backbones, cleaning and washing This ingenious machine was perfected in Seattle, Wash., by the company which perfected, in 1905, a somewhat similar machine called by fishermen "the iron Chink," because it took the place of thousands of Chinese who were formerly employed to clean fish in the salmon canneries of the north Pacific.

Business Instinct.

Sonny boy, aged four years, was unable to find one shoe, and mother, who was in a hurry to dress him, offered a nickel for quick work. This got the desired result. That night Sonny was observed carefully hiding both shoes His sister asked why and he informed her that he expected to get two nickels next morning for finding them.

RIBBON HATS FOR CHARMING GIFTS

Below are two small hats, either of which can be made in an hour, requiring for a foundation merely a close fitting crown The hat to the left requires a brocade material cut into six petals for the crown, while satin edge faille ribbon makes the unique bow and rolled brim. The small shape to the right is decorated with Romany ribbon drawn closely across front and back.

GAY RIBBON GIFTS FOR MILADY'S WARDROBE

Eight suggestions for Christmas Gifts are depicted here. From left to right they are a wide brocaded ribbon scarf lined with satin, a flower girdle ornament, a bandeau and a slipper fan made entirely of ribbon, and on the figure to the right a bandeau, corsage decoration, slipper ornaments and a fan, shaded metallic ribbon being especially adapted to the last four items.

BONUS DECISION NOT MADE TODAY

Society Notes

Moon-Reynolds.

William C. Moon of this city and Miss Viola B Reynolds of Saugerties, were united in marriage on Saturday at the parsonage of the Reformed Church of the Comforter by the pastor, the Rev. Wilbur F. Stowe. They were attended by Miss Charlotte Moon, a sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, and George Weber of this city as best man. Both are popular young folks. They will make their home on Gage street.

Sorosis.

Sorosis met with Mrs. Lasher on Monday afternoon. The roll call on "Christmas Thoughts," was appropriately responded to. Mrs. Lorraine Wood had the paper for the afternoon on "Mary Austin," in which she showed that Miss Austin is an artist in all she does and a woman of genius. Mrs George Silver took one of Miss Austin's books, "The Man, Jesus," and gave a fine review of the same. The next meeting of Sorosis will be with Mrs. Silver at her home, 306 Washington avenue on January 7th.

Young-Opferkuch.

James Lyman Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Young of Prospect street, Saugerties, and Miss Emma Josephine Opferkuch, daughter of Mrs. Josephine Opferkuch of Vineland, N. J., formerly of Saugerties were united in marriage at the Katsbaan parsonage by the Rev. R. J. Van Deusen, Sunday, December 16, at 2 o'clock. The ring service was used. The bride and groom were attended by H. B. Paterson of West Camp and Miss Belva M. Young of Saugerties. The bride was handsomely attired in a dress of chiffon indigo blue velvet, trimmed with squirrel, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid was prettily dressed in black georgette over brocaded velvet and carried pink roses. The bride, a very attractive young lady, is a trained nurse, a graduate of the Vineland, N. J. hospital. The groom is employed at the cement plant at Cementon. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the groom's parents.

BURNING MINE THREATENS CITY

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Connellsville, Pa., Dec. 18.—The annihilation of an entire community by cardon monoxide poisoning was threatened here today when a mine fire which started more than ten years ago in a mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Company was found to be raging perilously near the surface of the outskirts of this city.

Authorities fear that when it breaks through carbon monoxide gas will be emitted in large volume, putting residents of the district at the mercy of lethal gas.

HUGE STUFFED TROUT ATTRACTS MUCH ATTENTION

Many fishermen ahve been viewing with interest a stuffed German brown trout finely mounted in a frame with fishing tackle used by J. E. Spencer of this city, the angler, who caught the trout, it being on display in the show window of the Winchester Store, 37 North Front street. The trout was caught on August 24 in the Esopus creek where it flows into the Ashokan reservoir. It measured 34 inches, was of 23½ inches girth, and weighed 19 pounds and 14 ounces. It took Mr. Spencer forty minutes to land the trout after it was hooked. The mounting was done by Howard Burhans of 153 Wall street.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Dec. 18.—The stock market opened irregular today. Strength was noted in a few issues, but fractional declines, the result of profit taking, predominated. Willys Overland preferred was strong, rising 1 point to 80. Crucible Steel at 65¼ and Baldwin Loco at 125¼ were off ¼. Studebaker lost ¼ to 106, but Mack Truck rose ½ to 90¼. Phillips Petroleum lost ⅛ to 33½ and Sinclair ⅛ to 26¼. Pacific Oil rose ¼ to 48. Railroad shares were heavy, Union Pacific receding ¼ to 126¾. Baltimore and Ohio ⅜ to 58⅛ and Southern Ry. ⅜ to 35⅝.

A reactionary tone developed in the forenoon trading on the exchange today. As the session progressed a heavy tone soon set in and all classes of stock showed losses ranging from 1 to about 5 points. Rails and steels were lower, Baltimore and Ohio losing ¾ to 57¾. New York Central ⅝ to 104⅛. Gulf States Steel nearly 2 points to 79¾. Bethlehem Steel over 1 point to 52, and U. S. Steel ¾ to 94¾. Oils were heavy, California Petroleum at 24¼, Marland Oil at 35. Cosden at 34¾, Sinclair at 25⅝. Pacific Oil at 46⅞ General Asphalt at 36, and Pan-American Petroleum at 62½ were from 1 to nearly 2 points lower. Other stocks were from 1 to 2 points lower.

The market firmed up somewhat in the afternoon, when some of the leading stocks recovered part of the early losses. Corn Products rose over 1 point from the low to 153⅞ and Marland Oil over 1 point to 36¼.

Why Wood Decays.

Decay of wood is not due to direct chemical action or the action of the elements, but is always the result of the activity of low forms of plant life which feed upon the wood and destroy it.

The Autumn Poem.

It takes something more than red, yellow, frost, dead leaves, sky, breeze and a sad heart to make a good autum poem. Those appurtenances have all been over-used.

When Jap Dogs Bark.

If a dog barks at night in Japan the owner is arrested and sentenced to work for a fixed time for the neighbors whose slumbers may have been disturbed.

Sometimes.

Sometimes a woman has a speaking acquaintance with the woman across the street, and sometimes they know each other so well that they don't speak at all.

THREE DEAD IN HOUSTON HOTEL FIRE

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Houston, Tex., Dec. 18.—Three unrecognizable charred bodies were taken by firemen from the flaming Capitol Hotel building today while streams of water were being poured on the burning structure.

The blaze broke out at 6 o'clock this morning. As many guests were asleep in their rooms, it is not known how many persons have not been accounted for.

Two adjourning buildings were burned. The hotel site is in the business section.

Growth.

The teacher told us there was a little girl who had just been promoted to the first grade. But on the first day she got homesick for her kindergarten teacher, so she was allowed to visit the kindergarten for a few minutes. She looked over the crowd of new pupils in their little chairs, and then she looked up at the teacher with a tender and amused smile.

"Aren't they cute!" she whispered.

Had Reason to Fear It.

"You are an educated man," said the judge, "but this is a disgraceful crime you have been found guilty of. Have you anything to say before sentence?"

"Only this your honor," replied the pedant. "Whatever the sentence may be, for heaven's sake don't end it with a preposition."—Boston Transcript.

He Certainly Was.

Tom's wife was commenting at length upon a love passage in the novel she was reading. She hesitated and then tentatively spoke.

"Were you embarrasseed when you proposed to me, dear?" she inquired.

"Yes, darling," replied her husband. "I owed over $500."

Eliminating Rattling Doors.

Slamming and rattling doors are simply eliminated by a small pneumatic cushion made to fit the door jamb.

Couldn't Finance Ark.

Because an enterprise is a necessity is no reason why capital can be got for it. Noah couldn't finance the ark and had to build it piecemeal.

GRANDMOTHER, 88, IS ARRESTED FOR SPEEDING

Mrs John Hallenback, of Garden City Long Island, New York refuses to be slow. She has just completed an automobile trip from New York to spend the winter in Miami, Fla., driving herself all the way at terrific speed. When she reached Miami the "cops" gave her a ticket for speeding at the rate of 45 miles an hour through the city streets. Her nine grandchildren wired her their sympathy.

An Added Burden.

A new burden has been added to the life of house mistresses by the suggestion that servants ought to be provided with uniforms to match the color effects of the rooms in which they happen to be working.

Gas Light in London.

The first exhibition of lighting the streets of London by gas took place on the king's birthday, June 4, 1807. The lights consisted of a row of lamps in front of the colonnade before Carleton house, London.

Eggs Evaporate.

Unless the air in the room is neither too moist nor too dry, and the room is properly ventilated, eggs will lose in weight in cold storage on account of their tendency to evaporate through the shell.

TWINS SHARE HONORS IN COLLEGE.

Edwin & Frederick Connolly

Edwin and Frederick Connolly, of New York City, twin brothers, juniors in the University of Rochester N. Y., shared this year's Rosenberger Prize because the Board of Examiners could not find the slightest fraction of a percentage difference in their grades Looking exactly alike, they have always shared the same activities, entering college together and taking the same courses

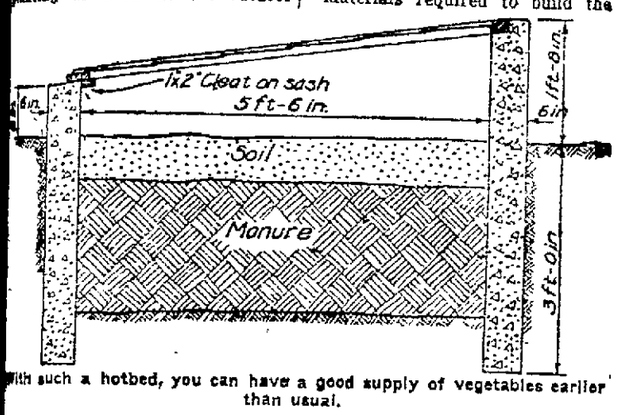
Hotbed Necessary for Early Vegetables

ANYONE who has a small plot of ground may enjoy the luxury of early spring vegetables by building a concrete hotbed. In connection with the household garden the hotbed can also be used to start vegetables and flowers for transplanting as soon as the outdoor growing season permits their being set out, thus assuring early blossoms or vegetables in advance of the regular season. A hotbed also may be used to prolong the season of certain table vegetables. A concrete hotbed is quite simply and easily built. It consists of four light walls over which windows are fitted. The walls should be made about six inches thick and should be started at a depth well below the frost line. Ordinary light frame forms are used above grade as well as below if the ground is not firm enough when excavated to serve as a form. The north wall should extend 20 inches above grade and the south wall 8 inches, giving the east and west walls a slope of 1 foot in their length of 6 feet 6 inches. A recess 3 inches wide and 2 inches deep is made on the inside edge of the north and two end walls while the south wall is left flat. This recess is for the frames for the cover to fit into. Small cleats nailed into the under side of the sash prevent their slipping out of place. Standard hotbed sash are made 3 by 6 feet and the measurements of hotbeds are usually determined by these dimensions. Storm windows are often utilized for hotbeds in which case the forms for the walls are planned according to the size of these windows.

Materials required to build the walls of the hotbed are portland cement, sand, crushed stone or pebbles and only enough water to make a workable, quaky mass, thoroughly mixed in proportion of 1:2:4, that is, 1 part cement to 2 parts sand and 4 parts crushed stone. The sand should be free from loam, sticks, or other organic materials, the stone or pebbles not more than one-half inch in diameter and the water of a quality suitable for drinking.

As it is put in the forms, the concrete should be spaded frequently so as to completely fill the forms, after which the top should then be leveled off with a straight-edged board. The forms should not be removed for at least four days, after which the bed is ready for use and can be filled with soil suitable for planting.

For a hotbed 12 feet long, the following materials are required: 17 sacks of cement, 1¼ cubic yards sand, 2½ cubic yards pebbles. For each additional foot of length 1 sack of cement, 2 cubic feet of sand, 4 cubic feet of pebbles.



With such a hotbed, you can have a good supply of vegetables earlier than usual.

INDUSTRIAL HOME ANNUAL BENEFIT

Hathaway Theaters to Continue Custom of Christmas Benefit for Home by Admitting Children Who Bring Gifts.

Following the annual custom inaugurated several years ago, Manager George C. Gildersleeve, of the Hathaway Theaters, will make Saturday's matinee performances at the Keeney Theater and the Kingston Opera House Christmas benefit performances for the Industrial Home, and the price of admission for children for the matinee performance at each theater will be a gift for the Industrial Home.

Gifts suitable for the children of the Industrial Home will be accepted instead of money for the children who attend Saturday's matinees at the two theaters. The gifts must be brought to the theater personally by the children seeking admission, and must be in such condition that they can be examined.

In previous years the gifts accepted from the children as the price of the matinee admission have included clothing, toys, books and food. These gifts cover a wide range, and the children of Kingston and their parents have displayed the true Christmas spirit in their gifts to the Industrial Home.

Gifts of food have included canned fruit and vegetables, fowl, meat, pastry, etc. Gifts of clothing should be suitable for children's wear and not cast-off clothing which is not suitable for a gift. Toys and books should be such as can be put to good use, and every year during which the benefit matinees have been given at the Hathaway Theaters there has been a generous assortment of both.

The Christmas benefit for the Industrial Home will include all matinee performances at both theaters on Saturday and if the experience of previous years can be taken as a criterion, there will be an unusual large attendance at both theaters on Saturday afternoon.

About the Folks

Mrs. Harry Jones was removed from the Kingston City Hospital to her home, No. 75 Fair street, in the ambulance on Monday.

Miss Margaret Tillson, a student at the Beechwood School, Jenkintown, Pa., is at her home, 109 South Manor avenue, for the Christmas holidays.

Otis Monroe Marshall and wife, former Kingston residents but lately of New York City, have returned to Kingston. Mr. Marshall has taken a position as cornetist in Keeney's Theatre.

William Von Berg left town on Sunday and will sail for Bremen on Tuesday, going to spend New Year's at his childhood home, Frankfort-on-the Main. Mr. Von Berg expects to return late in January or early in February.

On Friday, December 14, at 11 a. m., there were born at the Hackensack, N. J., Hospital to Mr. and Mrs Arthur T. Mesereau, triplets, two girls and a boy, named respectively Rose, Ann and John. The babies are all normal and perfect. Both Mr. and Mrs. Mesereau were former residents of this city, the maiden name of Mrs Mesereau being Rose Cullen, daughter of the late Policeman Thomas Cullen. The young people reside at Bergenfield, N. J. Although it has been a prolific Christmas gift, the father and mother are happy and proud over the new addition to their family.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES

The new vaudeville bill at the Kingston Opera House opened Monday evening with large audiences expressing their hearty approval of the five high class acts. The picture, "Affinities," from the story of the same title by Mary Robert Rinehart will be shown again tonight. The stars of the cast in this picture are Colleen Moore and John Bowers.

"Temporary Marriage" will again be shown at the Keeney Theatre this evening. This picture is said to be one of the outstanding film successes of the season. The story is replete with action. A wonderful cast interprets the intense story. The story deals with a woman who had reached the "dangerous age"—her husband seemed a bore, a "slowpoke"—she wanted "freedom."

At the Auditorium today is Betty Blythe, "The most beautiful woman on the screen" in "How Women Love." A young prima donna, gifted with a dangerous capacity for loving—a young American composer—an elderly millionaire—Fate brought these three together to show that love was more powerful than desire!

Appearing in one of the most delightful picture comedies seen here this season, Thomas Meighan, popular Paramount star, scored an emphatic hit in George Ade's "Woman-Proof" at the Orpheum Theatre last night. It will be shown tonight and Wednesday.

Medical Society Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Medical Society of the County of Ulster will be held this evening at 7 o'clock. Election of officers will be held and reports of the secretary and treasurer will be heard.

JURY GETS W. S. CROSSING CASE

The trial of the actions brought by Miss Margaret O'Brien and Lena Tonskey against James C. Davis, director general of railroads and the Kingston Consolidated Trolley Company, which has been been in the supreme court for the past several days was completed this morning when counsel summed up and the case was finally submitted to the jury for consideration. These actions, which were tried together, resulted from the collision between a trolley car and a train on the West Shore. Both are actions for personal injuries sustained by passengers on the trolley car.

Officer Boyd and Grove Webster, also occupants of the trolley car, were killed in the accident and in both cases which were tried in supreme court some time ago substantial verdicts were received. In these actions the trolley company was not held responsible and the verdict of the jury was against the railroad alone. At the time of the accident the railroads were government operated and the present actions are being brought against the director general of railroads, he having been substituted instead of the New York Central Lines which operate the West Shore Railroad.

Court will continue this week and will adjourn on Friday until Wednesday, December 26, when Judge Staley will return and continue this term until Friday, December 28 when the term will be adjourned.

Her Day of Days.

Joy had sadly missed her father, who had been east for a month. At last the morning came when she accompanied mother to meet her absent parent, and as the train drew into the station, daddy stepped from the coach clasping a joyous small daughter in close embrace. Joy breathlessly exclaiming, "O, daddy, this is the day I've lived for forever!"

SENSE OF TASTE IN PEOPLE

Divided Into Four Classes as Follows: Sweet, Bitter, Salt and Acid.

The sense of taste in human beings has been divided into four classes—sweet, bitter, salt and acid. These four classes, with their combinations, produce all the delicious sensations that we ascribe to taste, as well as all the disagreeable impressions of that sense.

But the tongue is not equally sensitive in all parts to these sensations. Indeed, it has been shown that different tastes result from the same stimulus when applied to different places on the tongue. The tip of the tongue, for instance, is most sensitive to sweet and acid tastes, while it is far less capable of perceiving a bitter taste than any other part of the organ. Some persons are unable to perceive any bitter taste when quinine is applied to the tip of the tongue only. At the back of the tongue the bitterness of the drug is perceived at once.

An explanation of the curious selective powers exhibited by the tongue is that a variety of nerve fibers are present in that organ, each kind being sensitive only to one of the four principal classes of taste. These nerve fibers are distributed in varying numbers over different parts of the tongue.

At the tip, for instance, the nerves which are sensitive to sweet and acid stimuli are most numerous, and accordingly in that locality those tastes are the ones most readily perceived. At the back of the tongue, on the other hand, the nerve fibers concerned in the perception of bitterness prevail over the others.

A singular proof of the fact that on particular parts of the tongue one sort of nerve fibers may overpower and mask the effect of another sort is furnished by placing sulphate of magnesia on the back of the tongue. At first only a strong bitter taste is perceived, but when the nerves producing the bitter taste are paralyzed, as they may be by the application of the drug called gymnema, without affecting the other nerves, then a slight acid taste becomes evident.

Thus even our slightest sensations of pleasure or pain are the result of a complicated system of nerve fibers and nerve endings, and while we can begin to perceive that certain nerves possess certain powers, or are sensitive to certain impressions and not to others, yet the cause of these differences remain to be discovered.

Body Attitudes Affect Thoughts.

After 3,200 tests Chester W. Darrow of the department of psychology at the University of Chicago has decided that bodily attitudes affect emotional thought.

In general the person with a smiling attitude will think pleasant thoughts more readily, and one with a sneer will more easily register unpleasant thoughts.

Bodily postures also are an important element, he added, the subject standing erect and straight responding more readily to pleasant thoughts than the person in a slouching posture.

Sophia of Hanover.

One of the most esteemed women connected with the royal house of Hanover was Electress Sophia, who died in 1714. She was the wife of Ernest Augustus, who succeeded his brother, John Frederick, to the electoral dignity in 1692, and daughter of Elizabeth, wife of the Elector Palatine, Frederick, and granddaughter of James I of England.

By their marriage the Hanoverian house was connected with that of England and Scotland. Their son, George Louis, succeeded his father in the duchy of Calenberg and in the electoral dignity in 1698, and by marrying his cousin, Sophia Dorothy, he united the two daughters of Calenberg and Luneberg on the death of George William in 1705.

Ores 50 Million Years Old.

Specimens of minerals said to have been extracted from strata of earth in Greenland more than 50,000,000 years old are on exhibition at the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Science. The minerals were discovered by Dr. Samuel G. Gordon, of the academy, who has just returned from an exploration of the Arctic country.

Whether the minerals, which were found in large quantities, could be made of any commercial value was problematical. Doctor Gordon said. One reason was the inaccessibility of Greenland, he explained.

Buttons Made of Waste Horn.

Some buttons are made from waste horn.

The waste is pulverized by cylindrical graters and the powder brought into cylindrical molds and subjected to high pressure, the temperature being increased at the same time. The cylinders of horn thus obtained, as soon as they come from the molds, and while still hot, are cut into disks of the desired thickness.

Unreasonable.

"Can't you wait on me?" asked the impatient customer. "Two pounds of liver. I'm in a hurry."

"Sorry, madam," said the butcher, "but two or three are ahead of you. You surely don't want your liver out of order!"

The Limit.

After all, the very worst thing that can happen to one in the theater is to have the usher, in the middle of the first act, ask, "May I see your seat-checks, please?"

Divine Right of Kings.

This doctrine had for its basis an absolute obedience on the part of the subject. It was upheld by many, but opposed by Milton and Algernon Sydney. Charles I of England lost his head because of his adherence to it.

ODD CRAZE FOR SOUVENIRS

Chrysanthemums Abstracted by Women From Church Following Wedding in New York.

Beyond any contest, the Pickwick club has left many descendants in the persons of ladies and gentlemen who seek and whenever they are able cull here and there small objects of interest. Savants tell us that we all have a prehensile, acquisitive instinct, so we are not surprised at the gathering of these objects. What is surprising is that some of them should interest anyone who held himself or herself above a jackdaw, but souvenirs have a wonderful fascination for a great many people, and they do not seem always to be over nice as to the means of getting them.

From soldiers' buttons to pictures in galleries, from commemoration plates to chips from a monument, all seems to be grist to these mills, and the latest edifying instance of this was at a wedding in New York. On this occasion the female souvenir hunters appeared in strong force and were active as usual, though it does not appear that they injured the bride or the bridegroom. The wedding, says the dispatch, "naturally attracted a large crowd, but the police kept the curious well in hand. . . . After the ceremony several young women managed to get into the church and took some of the chrysanthemums as souvenirs."

Bless their hearts, of course they did, and no fair-minded man can refrain from respecting them for not taking the pews. You will note, too, that they did not snatch the bride's bouquet out of her hands and that no male souvenir hunter walked off with the bridegroom's top hat. Such moderation must be commended. But what did the young women see in the chrysanthemums that was of interest? There was, of course, a little value in them, although there could not have been much left after being in the close church.

Did they think that one of these flowers put under the pillow would bring a millionaire husband to the young female who had pinched it? It is a riddle, like most of the performances of the souvenir hunter, and to our thinking wonderfully silly. Compared to this the hero worship of the gentleman who had shaken the hand that had shaken the hand of Sullivan was a reasonable and creditable sentiment. Besides, by the time that chrysanthemums have an odor it is a very unpleasant one.—Boston Transcript.

Hindu Gamblers' Day.

Gambling is permitted and countenanced for one day in the year in India, and that is the day of Devali—the Day of Light, which is dedicated to the Hindu god Ram, in celebration of his coronation, and of this day the devotees of that religion take great advantage. Huge sums are wagered on games of chance, and on frequent occasions the born gambler has lost one of his wives.

The native bazaars throughout India resemble fairyland, for outside the house or shop of every true Hindu are placed numerous little lamps of primitive construction. They consist merely of small shallow bowls, about the size of a saltcellar, filled with oil in which a wick is floated. The number of lamps varies with the financial standing of the householder, the wealthier natives displaying them by the hundred. According to the tradition, he who displays the greatest number of lights will become exceedingly rich, for on this night Lakshami, the goddess of wealth, is supposed to wander abroad, and enter wherever there are sufficient lights to catch her fancy.

For War Equipment.

A new use has been discovered for star shells, those eerie, ghastly parachute shells, which so often lighted up No Man's Land with their spookish glare. Federal prohibition agents are going to use them on the coast. Adrian Chamberlain, dry agent for New Jersey, had this to say of the first experiments with the new methods of detecting rum runners: "The bursting shells not only startled the rum runners but sent fast liquor craft and waiting automobiles on shore scurrying for the safety of the shadows elsewhere. We will continue their use until darkness on the Jersey board is turned to daylight."

RT OF FORWARD PASS IS REVEALED

Coach Knute Rockne of Notre Dame is shown here in three poses showing the proper execution of the forward pass. In the first pose at the left the famous mentor illustrates the proper way to grasp the pigskin after receiving a direct pass. Clutching the oval under the right arm the receiver may easily confuse the opposing team as to his intentions, whether he proposes to run with the ball or forward pass. In the center pose Rockne illustrates the proper method of poising the ball and in the third he shows how the pass should be started on its way.

Jennings Is Old Timer

Hughie Jennings, assistant manager of the New York Giants, has just completed his eighteenth consecutive season as a major league team leader. He became manager of the Detroit Tigers in 1907 and held that post until the end of the season of 1920. He resigned his position in Detroit to join the Giants three years ago. While manager of the Tigers his team won the American league championship in 1907, 1908 and 1909. Jennings was formerly a team mate of McGraw on the old Orioles. He played shortstop, while McGraw was at third base. He also played with the Brooklyn and Philadelphia clubs.

Many Ball Stars Spend Winter in Playing Golf

A lot of ball players are going to spend the winter playing golf. A team composed of Arnold Statz, Eppa Rixey, Jeff Bender, Connie Mack and St. Perkins would give the average club team a stiff battle. Statz came close to winning the championship of California and when he drops out of baseball will probably become a golf professional. Rixey has uncorked some splendid rounds and the keen ability of Bender is well known. Mack doesn't hit 'em as far as some young fellows, but he has a sturdy game, and plays Pine Valley—the hardest course in America—in the 80's. Perkins is one of the newer crop but he has been learning rapidly under the tutelage of John Rowe, a Philadelphia professional, and is pretty fair right now. All athletes have learned that golf is one of the greatest conditioning games in the world and it has become part of the spring training regime of almost every club.

There Was Unique Play in Harvard-Brown Game

There was a peculiar play in the Harvard-Brown game. O. A. C. Eastman kicked off for Harvard and was one of the first men down the field under the kick. Myers caught the ball for Brown on his five-yard line and ran to Brown's 45-yard line before he was brought down by Eastman, who had caught him from behind. It is said that a 220-pound tackle goes down under his own kick and then is able to tackle a quarterback near the center of the field.

Jennings Hails Traynor as Best in His League

Pie Traynor of the Pittsburgh Pirates is easily the best third sacker in the National league, and probably the best in either major league, if you are willing to take the word of Hughey Jennings. Traynor is a natural ball player with a world of ability, says Jennings, and he hasn't yet reached the peak of his game. Joe Dugan of the Yankees is great, but Traynor is greater, opines Jennings.

Doffing the vestments of his office and donning his academic robes as Doctor of Theology Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks one of the leading Episcopal ministers of America astounded his hearers in St. Bartholomew's Church in New York City, by declaring he did not believe in the Virgin Birth of Christ or His bodily resurrection after crucifixion. He added that he would welcome a heresy charge against him by Bishop Manning. St. Bartholomew's is one of the wealthiest congregations and most exclusive churches in the East, numbering leaders of the financial and social world among its parishioners.

Meaning of "Stone Age."

The term "Stone age" is commonly used to denote the earliest recognized stage in the development of human culture as defined by the materials used by man for weapons, utensils, etc. The phrase is somewhat misleading, since it is probable that primitive man made use of wood and other perishable materials to a far greater extent than of stone, and consequently the stage is defined by the prevailing material of the relics which have survived, not by that of actual implements in common use.

NEW PALTZ EASY FOR ST. PETER'S

St. Peter's quintet easily downed the New Paltz basketball squad Monday evening at the school hall by a 33 to 23 tally. Thurin was the leading scorer with 19 points, Chief Murphy was a close second with 17. The St. Peter's team registered 28 times from the playground during the struggle. Eight of the Saint's players were in the game.

In the preliminary contest the St. Peter's Juniors had an easy time gaining the lead on the Wilbur five. Disch led in scoring with 12 points, Ross followed with 10.

GREENPOINT HERE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Wednesday evening at the local armory court the Greenpoint combination of the Metropolitan League will furnish the attraction. Both the local representatives and the Greenpoint team have been dropping well fought contests of late and both teams are determined to break in this game.

Saturday in the Paterson game the Morgenweck squad had Tome and Campbell in its line up and put up an excellent fight Just who will appear on the home club's line up tomorrow night is not known Harry Riconda plays a forward position for the Greenpoint quintet with Egerts. This is a fast forward combination and before the first half season ends these players are expected to prove dangerous. Smith, Carey, Barry and Trippe complete the Greenpoint roster.
